Big Four Meeting Nears End

MINISTERS SET TO HOLD THEIR FINAL SESSION

Byrnes, Bevin Have Private Talk; Few Items Left On Council Agenda

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin held a special private conference at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel today prior to what promises to be a wind-up meeting of the big four council of foreign ministers late this afternoon.

The conference aroused some speculation but its exact nature was not disclosed.

A conciliatory mood by the ministers, particularly on the part of Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, expedited an agreement to appoint special deputies for preparatory work in London next month, and also assured the Austrian treaty a full place on the Moscow agenda.

China Bid Up

The major issue to undergo further discussion this afternoon is China's application by letter to Secretary of State Byrnes last October for participation in the drafting of the German treaty. Byrnes is strongly in favor of including China in the Moscow sittings of the council of foreign ministers next March, and told the big four it would be difficult to exclude her.

Molotov stands in direct opposition to this request on the grounds that the Potsdam agreement provides that only the signatories to the German capitulation document can participate in the peace treaty with Germany. Molotov reminded the council that China last Summer asked to be invited to the "peace conference" on Germany, which he also opposed and said China had no right to attend.

Peace Confab Expected

The question of a regular "peace conference" on the German treaty after it is drafted in Moscow by the big four has not been gone into, although apparently there is general anticipation to that effect.

The special deputies for preparing the German draft treaty reports probably will be named in a day or two. The council agreed at last night's session that they should meet in London on Jan. 14, and immediately start hearing the small nations directly interested in the German treaty. These deputies also are to consider the question of procedure in the preparation of the peace treaty.

It also was agreed that similar deputies be designated for consideration of the treaty with Austria, and the drafts prepared by the United States and Britain during the Summer months are to be studied for reference to the council at the Moscow meeting. They prob-

People who have been watching squirrels say it's going to be a hard Winter. . .squirrels who have been watching people are non-committal.

But hot or cold, the foreign ministers are moving to Moscow in March.

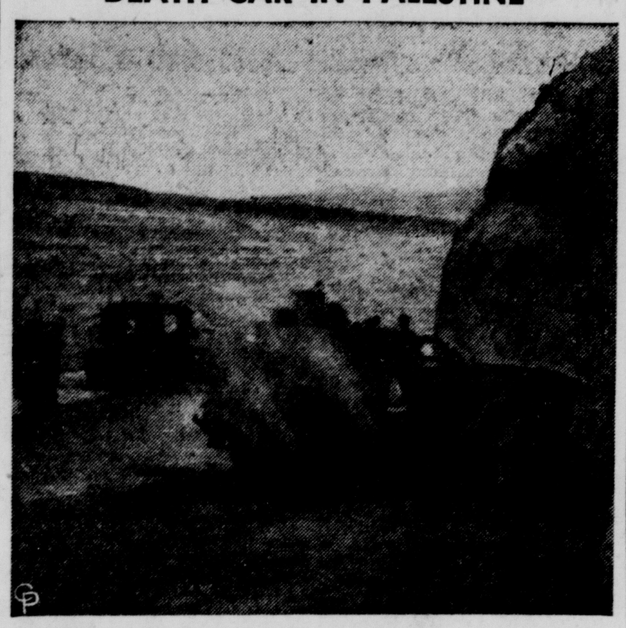

They seem to feel that it would be impossible to negotiate treaties with Germany and Lewis in the same month in the same country.

But the UN security council is making progress. . .Led by some fine old non-democratic states it has decided that Franco's non-democracy must end.

Franco is appealing the use of the injunction in labor disputes by parties who come into court with tattle-tale gray gloves.

In Washington the Republicans have decided not to announce the end of the war at the present time . . .Perhaps later on some dull campaign day.

200 Telephones Knocked Out When Cable Is Cut

Approximately 200 subscribers of the Ohio Consolidated Telephone company had silent phones Thursday as the result of an accident at the scene of a city sewer project.

Telephones in the northeast section of Circleville were out of order; Ashville was "isolated" and all rural subscribers between Circleville and Ashville had "dead" phones.

The mishap occured Wednesday afternoon when a power shovel in operation by the municipal employes cut into and severed a 100-pair telephone underground cable in the 500 block of North Pickaway street just north of Pleasant street.

The city is installing a storm and sanitary sewer in that area. Severance of the cable cut off the service of all telephones north of Pleasant street and east of North Court street.

Crews of workmen sent to the scene by the Ohio Consolidated Telephone company immediately began the job of splicing the cable. Edwin B. Jury, telephone company manager, said that restoration of telephone service was expected to be accomplished by Friday afternoon.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise cautioned that in the event of a fire in the affected section some delay may be encountered in reporting it to the fire department. He suggested that the alarm be given on the nearest fire alarm box; that if that alarm is not received at the fire station—which he said is very likely—the report must be made from the nearest useable telephone or in person at the fire station.

RAINIER COMBED FOR TRANSPORT

Searchers For Missing Plane Shift Operations To New Location

LONGMIRE, Wash., Dec. 12—The search for a Marine transport plane missing with 32 men aboard was shifted to the southern slope of Mount Rainier today.

The shift was made early in the morning when new reports led search authorities to believe that the plane flew beyond Purcell mountain, where the search centered earlier.

A proposed search of 5,450-foot Purcell mountain in the Cascades was given up. Coast Guard authorities expressed belief late yesterday that the transport was forced down there.

Proposals to investigate reports of a green flare near Toledo, Wash., were discounted by the Army as "rumor and meaningless."

The search will center on an area between 6,000 and 9,000 feet above sea level.

The hunt became confused when a ranger on Mount Rainier reported hearing a plane Tuesday afternoon. A survey of reports from the plane before it disappeared and from persons who said they heard it, also indicated that the transport was heading for Rainier.

Four Coast Guard radio trucks left Randle, the base for the search of Purcell mountain, to set up a new base at Longmire, a forest service station at the gateway to Mount Rainier national park.

At that time new reports led authorities to believe that the

An informal session will be held Monday night, but the convention opens formally Tuesday morning and will continue until Thursday noon.

POLICE CAPTURE ROBBERS AFTER $50,000 HOLDUP

DETROIT, Dec. 12—Two armed bandits staged a daring $50,000 daylight bank robbery in Detroit today and then walked straight into the arms of eight policemen.

The pair, identified as 28-year-old Andrew Firth and his cousin, Richard Firth, 27, herded five employes and four customers of the Detroit bank's branch into the vault.

The bank's manager, Robert Burns of Plymouth, told police the bandits then forced him to open a safe in the cashier's cage.

The 50-year-old manager said that it was while Andrew Firth was scooping up the money that he managed to step on the alarm button.

Police Lt. Charles Schwartz said eight policemen assembled at the bank's door a minute and a half after the bank's alarm was sounded.

The police blockade stopped the fleeing bandits and they surrendered without a struggle.

54 PICKETS ARRESTED IN RIOT FACE CHARGES

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 12—Fifty-four persons seized Monday during a strike riot at the West Allis plant of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, faced charges today of unlawful assembly and rioting.

Warrants naming the 54 were obtained by Milwaukee county district attorney William J. McCauley in the latest move by authorities to keep order at the big farm equipment plant.

Blum Agrees To Serve As Premier

PARIS, Dec. 12—At the age of 74, socialist leader Leon Blum resumed captaincy of France today as interim premier.

The newly-elected national assembly, after rejecting Communist nominee Maurice Thorez and middle-of-the roader Georges Bidault, returned Blum to the nation's highest elective office by a vote of 575 out of 590.

Informants quoted the aging Socialist leader as stating:

"To save France in this dark hour, I will take responsibility even if it kills me."

News of Blum's availability produced an immediate favorable reaction in political and financial circles. Stock values increased in trading in the bourse.

Qualified observers believe Blum can be elected despite his anti-Communist position. In recent debate in the Socialist national council he argued against merging with the Communists in a new workers front. The Communists are the largest group in the assembly.

At 74 Blum is regarded, however, less as a Socialist than as a venerable statesman.

His acceptance means that Blum is disregarding his health, which already has reduced his working hours to two daily. It also means that the Socialists seemingly have discarded their reluctance to assume the premiership in the difficult transition period during which the party that heads the government is sure to be impaired.

U. S. On Spot As Nations Get Together On Plans For Disarmament

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes was scheduled to make his first appearance today before a body of the United Nations general assembly.

The tangle over disarmament and a proposed count of troops and armaments took America's top diplomat away from his Waldorf-Astoria peace treaty conferences.

The United States was somewhat on the spot as matters stood at the moment. Soviet Russia and Great Britain reached a "gentleman's agreement" that any canvass of troops at home and abroad should include a similar inventory of weapons of war.

This, of course, would include a survey of America's stockpile of atomic bombs.

Byrnes was expected to demand that an international agreement on control of atomic energy be made the keystone of any arms reduction program.

A 20-member sub-committee of the UN political and security committee was meeting this morning shortly in advance of a plenary session of the general assembly to debate disarmament further. Byrnes was to appear either before this group or the assembly.

To date, the secretary of state has remained aloof, although Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov consistently has fought his

VENEZUELA IS NERVOUS OVER REVOLT REPORTS

CARACAS, Venezuela, Dec. 12—Caracas reacted uneasily today to reports from the interior that the rebels were reorganizing as the government stood pat on its announcement that a revolt against the regime of President Romulo Betancourt had been smashed.

Betancourt, who himself came to power as the head of a revolutionary Junta in October, 1945, said the insurgent leaders were fleeing the country.

Other government officials said the leaders were escaping to Colombia. One report said a group had surrendered in the latter country.

AT LEAST EIGHT DIE IN GOTHAM FIRE AND BLAST

Scores Injured And Missing Total High After Wall Falls On Tenement

NEW YORK—Dec. 12—At least eight persons were killed, scores were injured and 38 others were listed as missing today in a five-alarm fire and explosion which ripped through an old ice house and blasted the rear section of an adjacent tenement in upper Manhattan.

Whole families, ranging from a new-born infant through the ranks of children to elderly parents, were feared to be trapped in the two-story pile of shattered masonry and debris.

Police said there were 100 persons in the tenement building when the explosion, believed to have been set off when the flames punctured a tank of ammonia in the ice house, clipped off the rear end of the apartment like a charge of dynamite in a hillside cliff.

In the garish light of emergency equipment, firemen, policemen and other rescuers used everything from hand shovels to two huge cranes to sift the debris for more possible victims.

Police said that over the past couple of years, neighborhood boys occasionally had been caught starting fires in the old ice house. One such small fire was extinguished only yesterday afternoon.

The death toll included a fireman and a boy, both of whom were pulled from the wreckage alive but died later in a hospital.

The fire started at midnight in the unused plant of the Knickerbocker Ice company, in the Washington Heights section—just a few blocks from the world-famous George Washington bridge. Shortly after one o'clock a terrific explosion, probably originating in an ammonia tank, rocked the plant and the adjoining tenement.

The heavy rear wall of the ice house collapsed, and crashed on the apartment building, tearing down the tenement wall and crushing apartments like egg shells as the full impact tore the building wide open.

Tenants ran screaming from the building, blood streaming down their faces. Mothers and fathers, in night clothes, carried their children to safety, climbing over heaps of masonry, plaster and splintered stairs.

In the debris itself arms and legs of the trapped persons could be seen protruding from the wreckage in the garish light of the flames and the many lights focused on the scene by the perspiration-soaked firemen. The voices of others pleading for help could be heard also.

A dozen persons were pulled out within a short time.

Some of those missing, and presumably buried under the heaps of debris, were believed to be firemen.

COLD WAVE DUE TO COVER OHIO DURING NIGHT

By International News Service

Another cold snap was scheduled to envelop Ohio by late tonight, with the mercury plunging to as low as 15 degrees in some parts of the state.

Rain, which was falling today in most places, was scheduled to turn to snow flurries by early morning.

The weather bureau posted storm warnings for Lake Erie, with the prediction that increasing winds would reach velocities of between 35 and 40 miles an hour.

Forecasters said the latest Winter storm was moving southward from upper Lake Michigan. The mercury was down to 4 degrees at Duluth, Minn., this morning and was dropping rapidly everywhere in the path of the disturbance.

Meanwhile, temperatures continued mild in Ohio and were to hit into the high 50's this afternoon.

Soil Conservation Topic At Teachers' Meeting

Soil conservation is vitally needed if Pickaway county is to maintain its crop productivity it was declared by Carl Johnson, Columbus, in an address to approximately 120 rural school teachers, principals and superintendents who attended a dinner meeting Wednesday night in the Jackson township school auditorium at the village of Fox. Johnson several weeks ago was appointed coordinator of conservation education for the state department of education.

Declaring that the wartime drain on natural resources was "staggering", the speaker asserted the situation is "alarmingly critical" and that the "wise use of our remaining resources of soil, water, minerals, forests, and wildlife is imperative if we are to maintain our present standard of living".

Charging that Pickaway county along with the remainder of the nation is "guilty of a national crime", Johnson said that this country's "crop balance figures of 173,000 acres in soil depleting crops and only 17,000 acres of soil building crops is prima facie evidence in any court of justice that the lands of the county are not being presently so managed as to for long maintain their present productivity."

He asserted it is necessary to make students throughout the county conservation-minded.

"The best use of every acre means a higher cash income", Johnson declared, "better foods from those acres, means higher valuation and tax incomes, higher standards of living for those managing the resources, means better schools, higher salaries for teachers, and a guarantee that all this will be maintained indefinitely.

"If you teachers in Pickaway

PERSIAN TROOPS CONTINUE DRIVE AGAINST REBELS

TEHRAN, Dec. 12—Government troops who broke Azerbaijan rebel resistance in 41 hours of light fighting rolled on towards the provincial capital of Tabriz today to begin a peaceful occupation.

Jafar Pishevari, Azerbaijan premier who had defied the efforts of the central government to send troops to the province, was reported to have fled across the border to Russia.

The report, unconfirmed by any official source, added that he was accompanied by his lieutenant, M. Danaslian.

(A Tehran dispatch received by the London Daily Telegraph said the Soviet ambassador to Iran had asked the shah to arrange a "pardon" for the escaped Azerbaijan leaders.)

TRUMAN NAMES ATOM EXPERTS TO COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—President Truman appointed a committee of outstanding atomic experts today to advise the atomic energy commission on scientific and technical matters.

A nine-man group includes most of the top men who helped the Manhattan project develop the atomic bomb.

The committee, to be known as a general advisory board, will give the atomic energy commission advise on "scientific and technical matters relating to materials, production, and research and development."

NEW CHIEFS APPOINTED

Steelman Named 'Assistant To The President'; No Rent Increase Due

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—President Truman today abolished the office of war mobilization and reconversion, the OPA and a number of other wartime agencies and created an office of temporary controls to liquidate them.

The chief executive said that controls will continue on rents, sugar and rice. Mr. Truman said he knew of no plan for increasing rent ceilings.

The President appointed Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, federal works administrator, as head of the office of temporary controls.

He named Reconversion Director John R. Steelman as an "assistant to the President" and said Steelman will continue as reconversion chief and top White House advisor on labor.

Mr. Truman bluntly declared at his news conference that the strikes which have harrassed the nation since V-J day have prevented him from formally declaring the war at an end.

Other important announcements at the president's first news conference since John L. Lewis ended the 17-day soft coal shutdown included:

1. The President said he will send three separate messages to the new Republican-controlled congress, on strike-curbing legislation, the budget, and the nation's economic situation. He said he will discuss strikes in all three messages.

2. Mr. Truman named Frank Creedon, deputy chief of the civilian production administration, as housing expeditor succeeding Wilson Wyatt, resigned, and Raymond M. Foley to head the national housing agency, an administrative position.

3. By executive order the chief executive abolished the OPA, the CPA and the OES by consolidating them with the OWMR in the office of temporary controls, and abolished the wage stabilization board as of Feb. 24 and the economic stabilization board.

4. The President said he would meet at 3 p. m. (EST) today with new agency heads to discuss the nationwide housing crisis.

5. The President appointed a nine-man committee of atomic energy experts to advise the

NEW FIGHT ON WAGES WATCHED

Industrial Leaders Claim CIO's Report On Big Raise Fallacy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—Industry and labor squared off today for another battle on the former's ability to make substantial wage increase without boosting the price of its products to American consumers.

CIO President Philip Murray fired the opening gun in the CIO's drive for 1947 pay adjustments by unveiling an economic report asserting that business can afford a 25 percent general raise in wages without higher prices.

Industry spokesman, as they did a year ago, promptly challenged Murray's argument as "an economic fallacy."

The battle will reach its climax next month as Murray leads his 750,000 steelworkers into negotiations for higher wages against a background of a new congress intent on curbing economy-crippling strikes in majority industries.

New fuel will be added to the labor-management contest within a week by the first report of President Truman's economic council on government measures

ROOKS PROPOSED AS SUCCESSOR TO LAGUARDIA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—The central committee of UNRRA today nominated Maj. Gen. Lowell W. Rooks to succeed Director-General Fiorello LaGuardia, effective Dec. 31.

Action on the nomination will be taken at tomorrow's plenary session, which is expected to follow the committee's recommendation.

Rooks has served as deputy director-general of UNRRA for the past year and was the chief liquidations officer.

In the resolution nominating Rooks, the committee voiced regret at LaGuardia's resignation and also expressed appreciation of the retiring director general's services.

TEACHERS THREATEN STRIKE

NEWARK, O., Dec. 12—Newark teachers affiliated with the AFL - Federation of Teachers threatened today to strike unless the school board takes "immediate and concrete action" on wage increase demands.

WITNESSES SAY BILBO HELPED WAR CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—Army witnesses testified today that Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo (D) Miss., by telegram and personal visits, intervened with the war department for a contractor who ultimately won the work on the two and one-half million dollar Jackson air base.

Maj. Gen. Thomas M. Robins, retired, former assistant chief of Army engineers, told a senate war investigating subcommittee that Bilbo called on him "four or five times" in relation to the Jackson project.

Robins said he finally decided to let the contract to the M. T. Reed Construction company, of Belzoni, Miss., because the firm recommended by district engineers was not a Mississippi concern.

atomic energy commission on scientific and technical matters.

6. Mr. Truman announced that he will again ask congress for legislation merging the armed forces into a single department of national defense.

Mr. Truman declined to discuss the matter of tax cuts. He said he would take this up in his congressional messages.

He said Fleming will continue as federal works administrator.

In creating the new agency to liquidate a large portion of the wartime emergency government set-up, the President said that rents, sugar and rice will be kept under price controls.

The President said that he knew of no plans for increasing ceilings on rents. He made this statement in response to a question at his news conference.

OPA Wiped Out

The presidential executive order abolished the OPA, the CPA, and the office of economic stabilization by consolidating them with mobilization and reconversion and merging all into the office of temporary controls.

The wage stabilization board is abolished as of Feb. 24.

The office of government reports is recreated and will take over the functions of the government information service of the bureau of budget and the advertising and motion picture divisions of the reconversion agency.

OCS Transferred

The office of contract settlement was transferred to the treasury department. Certain functions of the wage stabilization board will be placed under the department of labor.

The President said that the office of temporary controls will be responsible for carrying out the functions of OPA, CPA and certain activities of OWMR which continue in effect.

The President said that the priorities powers of CPA expire March 31, except for building materials, unless extended by congress.

He said that the principal OPA programs which continue under law are sugar rationing and rent control. He said that the functions of the economic stabilization board already have been largely terminated as a result of decontrol of prices and wages and elimination of most items from rationing.

Economy Seen

Mr. Truman said that the consoldiation "will result in economies of operation, and in a more rapid liquidation of personnel, property, records, etc., which are no longer needed for current programs."

He said that although the reconversion program has not been completed, actions already taken "materially lessen the need for continuing a separate OWMR."

The OWMR advisory board will be continued for a short time. The president said members of the board have asked to be relieved of their duties at the earliest practicable date.

To Discuss Housing

Steelman, and a small staff, will continue to serve as liaison between the executive agencies and the President's commission on higher education, as well as chairman of the President's scientific research board.

The President said he will meet with the new heads of agencies appointed this morning at 3 o'clock this afternoon to decide what is to be done about the housing program.

The President said that all wartime agencies will terminate on the dates provided by law unless congress decides otherwise.

Silent On Lewis Case

The chief executive declined to discuss the recent United Mine Workers walkout. He observed that the John L. Lewis matter is now before the courts.

Mr. Truman was asked if he hoped the supreme court would keep the recent election reports in mind in its deliberation of the UMW case before it.

The president replied that no one should seek to influence the courts.

The chief executive declined to discuss any request he may make to congress concerning labor legislation.

Must Await Message

Asked if he planned to recommend modification of the Wagner act, the chief executive replied that nobody has the right to quote him until his message to congress has been delivered.

The President was reminded that Republican leaders at a recent Washington meeting had announced they would not go along with any "radical" program laid down by the White House.

Mr. Truman replied that he refused to define the word "radical" and that the program he recommends in his annual and budget messages to congress next month will be designed for the welfare of the United States, and would be his viewpoint.

The President said he had not read the report of former government economist Robert Nathan which said that wage rates should be raised from 12 to 25 per cent.

General theme of the Byrnes speech was expected to be that there should be agreement within the atomic energy commission on prohibition of the atomic bomb and all other mass destruction weapons before the world states began reducing their armies, navies and air forces.

Britain's Sir Hartley Shawcross involved the situation—from an American viewpoint—by insisting that a big three compromise demand for a foreign-soil and "at home" troops census be accompanied by an armaments count—with "verification" by a special united nations commission.

COLUMBUS STREET CAR MEN GET 15 PCT. RAISE

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12—Columbus streetcar and bus operators, who struck for 25 days in October, won a 15-cent-an-hour wage increase and free rides from a three-man arbitration board today.

The pay provisions are not retroactive.

Shortly after the first of the year the President will transmit the council's recommendations to congress.

COLUMBIAN CASE TO BE PRESENTED TO GRAND JURY

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 12—Evidence against the racial-baiting Columbians, Inc., will be presented to a grand jury tomorrow while evidence pours in that the structure of the organization is crumbling under the revelations of ex-members and espionage agents.

With the presentation of evidence to the Fulton county grand jury by Solicitor General E. E. Andrews less than 24 hours away, Atlanta police reported that another member of the Columbians is ready to talk.

R. L. Whitman, of Atlanta, was reported by authorities to have turned over a membership list to police and to have turned in Columbian insignia and equipment.

Whitman, a section leader for the organization, is facing trial on charges of disorderly conduct.

Meanwhile, two warrants charging assault and battery were sworn out by Ira Jett, one of the leaders of the Columbians, against Mario Buzzi, undercover agent for the non-sectarian anti-Nazi league.

Jett alleged that Buzzi assaulted him at a downtown hotel where Jett had gone to surrender to sheriff's deputies. Buzzi, together with Renee Forrest, had done espionage work within the Columbians on behalf of the anti-Nazi league.

Coast Guard equipment then headed for Toledo, where the flare reports originated.

Later, information indicated that the Mount Rainier search was justified, and Coast Guard equipment went back to Longmire.

The missing plane, on a flight from San Diego to Seattle, has been unreported since 4:13 p. m. (PST) Tuesday, when the pilot made a routine radio check with the Toledo range station.

The twin-engined R5C, known as a Curtis Commando, had sufficient gas to remain in the air only until 9:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Moscow Subjects Planned

The big four, once agreed on the question of deputies, found little further trouble in setting up a general agenda of six main points for the Moscow meeting. On Molotov's insistence, the American proposal for limitation of European occupation forces was left off, but with the specific Russian assurance that the matter would be discussed in Moscow.

The only serious question still open aside from Germany on the council books is that of the long-term financing of the free territory of Trieste, which will have to be dealt with this afternoon.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

A Grand American Tradition

The Cuppers had a grand old family reunion last week—for the first time since the war.

Big and little Cuppers came, by car and train, from as far west as Nebraska and as far east as Vermont. They crowded Dee and Jane's house, set up quarters in the barns, or stopped with neighbors—and a jollier gathering you couldn't have imagined!

I was asked to their final Saturday night supper, when they sang old songs, drank beer and cider, reminisced. Dark Cuppers and blonde ones—Vermont accents and Alabama drawls—doctors and farmers . . . all with their differences of taste and politics, yet as close and harmonious in spirit as a group could be.

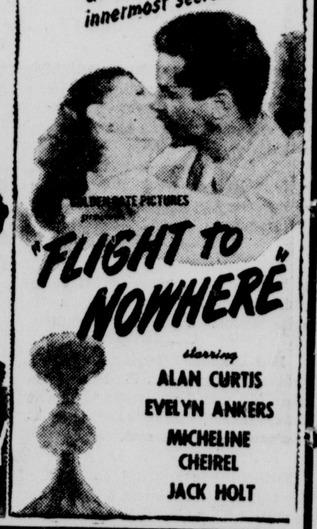

From where I sit, it's a great American tradition—not just family reunions, but the ability to get along as one harmonious family, regardless of differences of taste—whether it's taste for politics or farming, beer or cider.

NEW PLANS FOR WAR VETERANS CLASSES MADE

Third School May Have New Classes For Training Of Ex-Servicemen

Veterans' classes in agriculture under the joint sponsorship of the Pickaway county board of education and the Veterans Administration are now being taught at two rural schools in the county and County Supt. of Schools George D. McDowell said Thursday that steps are under way to inaugurate the on-the-job training in a third school.

However, before this can be accomplished, Supt. McDowell explained, formal approval must be obtained from the Veterans Administration, necessary finances must be arranged for, and a qualified instructor must be engaged.

Classes of World War II veterans enrolled in the vocational agricultural training groups are now filled, Supt. McDowell said, and there are a sufficient number of applicants to form a class at a third school in Pickaway county.

The instructors at the two classes at the Jackson township school are Hilis Hall and Bernard Ball, and Joseph Peters is the teacher of the class at the Walnut township school.

All of the instructors are thoroughly experienced in farm work.

In a recent conference of Hall and Ball with J. A. Muster, county conservationist, and Cornell Copeland, Farm Security Administration district director, ways and means of coordinating the agricultural agencies were discussed.

The major purposes of the training classes is to give veterans all possible information to further their desire to become established in farming as a vocation. County Agent Larry A. Best, at a recent conference, outlined farming prospects in the county next year.

Co-operating with the movement, Circleville implement dealers have agreed to give the training groups essential information concerning the operation and care of individual pieces of farm machinery and equipment.

Field trips are being planned to get first-hand information on agricultural problems and jobs to be done by the veterans as farm operators.

MOTHERHOOD IN BEAR FAMILY HITS NEW LOW

CINCINNATI, Dec. 12—Motherhood in the species ursus maritimus has hit a new low at the Cincinnati zoo.

Ursus maritimus is one of the hardier species of the animal world, being the polar bear which inhabits the frigid Arctic regions.

However, Aurora, the Cincinnati zoo's female of the species, didn't do so well when she gave birth to twins. One of the cubs was accidentally crushed to death before attendants discovered the births. But a worse reflection on the softening effects of life in the temperate zones was yet to come.

Veterinarian Sol G. Stephen disclosed that the surviving cub had been taken from his 400-pound mother and turned over for feeding to a female dog—and a motherly nanny goat.

REP. WEICHEL CONTINUES TO OPPOSE HOME

Ohio Republican Declares Sandusky Home Operated With Convicts There

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—Rep. Alvin F. Weichel (R) Ohio, sought today to stop federal payments of $10,000 monthly to the governor of Ohio for the state soldiers home at Sandusky on the grounds that it is operated with convicts living on the same premises with veterans.

In a telegram to Veterans Administrator Bradley, Weichel declared that he ignored previous requests on the matter and "is violating the law and intent of congress as to the payment of money encouraging convict contact with war veterans in state-operated soldiers homes." He added:

"I am again asking that you deny certification for October, November, December, 1946, and until such time as convicts are removed from the premises occupied by veterans. Congress did not intend that you should assist the state of Ohio to use convict labor, make a profit and not use civilian labor for war veterans."

Weichel, in a similar telegram to Comptroller-General Lindsey Warren, asked that he use every means to stop the payments, declaring:

"General Bradley of the veterans administration is certifying the payment of these sums monthly instead of protecting war veterans against living in convict-operated homes, is encouraging such conduct by paying money to the state of Ohio in support of a convict operated home. I ask that you deny the certification of General Bradley. not pay any moneys to the state of Ohio for federal aid to veterans in the soldiers home at Sandusky, Ohio, until convicts are removed from the operation of this veterans home."

LIQUOR RATION FOR HOLIDAYS TO BE LARGER

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12—The state liquor ration for the Christmas period, beginning Dec. 16 and extending to Dec. 28, was increased to two units today.

Liquor Director Robert M. Sohngen also announced that 15,000 cases of bonded Bourbon would be received before Christmas and would sell ration-free at about $6.50. Twenty-five brands of blended whiskey are also ration-free.

For the first time, permit holders will be allocated 100 per cent of their total weekly average bottle purchases during the first six months of 1942.

HIGH GOALS SET FOR BUCKEYE FARMERS IN '47

Corn, Dairy Cattle, Sheep Quotas Cut But Others Are Boosted

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12—Production goals suggested by national officials for Ohio farmers in 1947 are higher than the totals reached in 1946 except in corn, oats, burley tobacco, dairy cattle, and sheep. Ohio State University rural economists say national farm goals include reductions in those items and also vegetables, potatoes, chickens, and turkeys.

Less corn and oats are suggested because the feed grain supply now is much larger than in several years so there is likely to be considerable carryover of 1946 corn. Reduction in the number of dairy cows does not necessarily mean less dairy products because production per cow can be increased by better feeding.

Suggestions for further cuts in sheep numbers is a reflection of the world wool supply, which is above average levels. Burley tobacco is in plentiful supply, and another big crop of it might topple the market price for that type of tobacco. Wartime vegetable production levels may be too high for peacetime consumption so a decrease is advised both on fresh vegetables and on truck crops for canneries.

The 1947 crop goal increases of most importance are those of wheat, soybeans, and hay. World food supplies are not up to normal and wheat is a universal food for all nations. Soybeans will be needed in larger amounts for the oil which they produce. Hay acreages should go up because inroads have been made on soil fertility.

Slight increases in potatoes, chickens, and turkeys are expected in Ohio when a decrease is indicated for the nation because Ohio does not supply local market demands for those products. This local demand gives Ohio farmers a favorable break over producers in areas where such produce must be shipped long distances.

Worth its wait in Golden Moments

THE first big moment comes, of course, when you step out of your door, and there's your very own Buick, all ready and waiting.

The next one comes when you roll down the street in this handsome creation—and practically feel the eyes of the passers-by following.

You get another lift the first time you meet a hill, and the voice of your Fireball straight-eight engine drops from baritone to bass as it meets the challenge — and tramps the grade down into easy levelness.

Then some night you'll find yourself alone on a quiet moonlit country road—and the whisper of your engine, the soft tread of your coil-sprung wheels, your gentle, cradled, easy stride, will fill your soul with a peace you wouldn't trade for worlds.

The simple truth is that it's not only an automobile you wait for when you wait for a Buick — it's an endless series of sweet satisfactions.

It's not just a matter of size and room and Fireball power and all-coil springing, as any Buick owner will tell you—it's the wonderful way all these add up to make a constant flow of golden moments.

You'd like those moments to start coming soon. So would the whole, hard-hitting crew that's waging relentless war against delays and shortages to produce Buicks for you — and fast.

But the most important thing — when you think it out — is what you get rather than when you get it — and what you really want is found nowhere else but in Buick.

Why not settle your mind on that and be done with it? You can place your order now for future delivery, with or without a car to turn in — though we like to get trade-ins for our used-car buyers.

POTATOES

THE potato is not a beautiful vegetable, but a mighty useful one, and right now is in a strange situation. This year's crop is so big that it seems impossible to handle it in a normal way, and enormous quantities may go to waste. The Secretary of Agriculture at Washington reports that as much as 20,000,000 bushels may be lost unless drastic steps are taken to salvage them. Efforts are made for temporary storage, but millions of bushels may be left in the fields to be ruined by the first heavy frosts.

The ideal way for disposal of this surplus would be to ship carloads to Europe for foreign distribution, but in most cases that is impossible, because it is so difficult to ship and distribute them without spoiling. There ought to be some way to preserve and distribute potatoes better than present methods permit.

Nor are potatoes the only product suffering from maldistribution. Though it is not exactly the potatoes which suffer. They do not much care, we imagine, what happens to them. But the farmers who grow them do, and so do the people who are hungry for them.

IMPORTANT SOUTHERNER

"OUTSTANDING service to the people of the South" gives Gov. Ellis Gibbs Arnall of Georgia the Southern Conference for Human Welfare's Jefferson award for 1946. The fact is that, except perhaps for ex-Secretary of State Cordell Hull, no Southerner in years has so deeply impressed the country.

Among Arnall's services to Georgia are abolition of the poll tax, giving 18-year-olds the right to vote, freeing the state university from political control, and the wiping out of the state debt. His latest achievement has been to bring before the United States Supreme Court the discriminatory freight rates which have handicapped the South for years. His recent autobiography, "Shore Dimly Seen", shows him to have a definite philosophy of life and a captivating literary style.

Under the Georgia constitution Gov. Arnall could not run again this year. But a 39-year-older of his achievements will soon find some other wide outlet for his ideas and energy. It he does not, it will be a national loss.

The British and American rulers of Germany are reviving German trade unions as a bulwark against a Nazi return. In the United States many people's idea of statesmanship is to have unions abolished altogether.

ASSIGNMENT: AMERICA

By Kenneth L. Dixon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—If the readers will bear with a bit of maudlin sentimentality, this is a story devoted to the departure of a friend.

His name is Damon Runyon.

He died a couple of days ago, and I guess his death was duly noted in the news stories and obituary columns. It wouldn't have mattered, anyway.

For Damon Runyon was beyond news stories and obituary columns. He cannot die and isn't dead, because he was—not "had" you understand—the thing we all strive for.

Immortality, I mean.

He never knew he had it, which perhaps is the sad thing. Like Ernie Pyle, who is—not "was" you understand—one of my best friends, Runyon was fated to feel himself always a failure.

Not long ago, a book of his hit the bookstores. Reviewing it in his own daily column, Damon damned it as a perfect example of a man who "carries water on both shoulders." He seemed to regret horribly the fact that he hadn't set out to crusade for the things he thought were right.

He seemed to feel that his was a wasted life. . .

The gist of that bitterly cynical review of his own work seemed to shout that he considered himself a man who had sold his birthright for a mess of something less than pottage—that he deeply and shakenly regretted not having become one of those who sell a sermon with every story.

From far away, I read that review and clipped and saved it. It is seldom that you see an honest man bare his soul for the world to see. Damon Runyon did that.

He seemed to feel that he was at fault because he had taken good pay for writing popular columns and stories through the years without including a moral in each one. He seemed to feel that he had failed, because he had not picked a particular political creed and followed it in every line of fact or fiction that he wrote.

He seemed to feel that he had cheapened the talent that was his by not contributing daily, weekly and monthly to a cause that he approved.

Which means that Damon Runyon thought himself a failure. . .

Somewhere in Valhalla, Damon Runyon roams the streets tonight. Perhaps, in that sanctuary reserved for errant newsmen and writers, there are morning editions of celestial newspapers which are picked up at the corner newstands by the inveterate stay-out-lates—such as Damon.

I hope so, and I hope that the edition Runyon picks up carries this story, for I want to tell him something.

I want to tell him that for nearly three years I roamed the world without finding even a medium-sized city which didn't have a bookstore with a Runyon book on its shelves.

England, Africa, Italy, France, Belgium, Holland—even in Germany, it was all the same. Always, in every language, there were Runyon books, and there were people who felt that Harry the Horse and little Isadore were practically their next-door neighbors.

To them, Runyon had brought, not only entertainment, but also a feeling of fellowship for the human race. Perhaps the entertainment was predominant, but the

DIET AND HEALTH

Bed Rest Can Be Overdone

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE body, like man himself, was made for action and, whenever it is forced into more or less complete inactivity, it is sure to suffer. This is just as true in sickness as it is in health. To be sure, there are numbers of illnesses which demand a period of strict bed rest, but it is just as important not to continue this regime beyond the time it is needed as it is to enforce it when it is.

In tuberculosis of the lung, for instance, nothing is more essential than absolute rest whenever there is fever, cough, marked loss in weight, or night sweats. But when the patient is in good nutrition and practically free of the symptoms mentioned above, complete inactivity may only increase the dangers of this dread disease.

Loss of Strength

It not only means a loss of muscle strength and a disturbance of the working of the various healthy organs of the body, but it increases the patient's fear concerning his condition.

Thus, according to Dr. Harry A. Bray of New York, the patient's resistance is lessened because he is being physically and emotionally undermined.

Two Weeks in Bed

In treating patients with beginning tuberculosis, Dr. Bray suggests that they be put to bed during the first two weeks of observation. The rest in bed is limited to prevent any harmful effects. From the beginning, patients who have no symptoms are allowed to get up to go to the bathroom and to meals.

After this initial period of two weeks, the patient is allowed to rest on an open porch for several weeks, and then begins to have exercises out of doors for periods varying from five minutes to two hours. In addition, the patient is assigned little jobs that take from five minutes to an hour to complete. The entire period of treatment is about seven to nine months.

Results Are Favorable

In 57 out of 67 patients who had had tuberculosis of the lungs for less than a year, the results of this treatment were quite favorable. Of 360 other patients, 97 had previously been in bed for an average period of four months. The results obtained in this group of 360 patients were about the same whether the patient had had previous treatment with rest in bed or not.

Of course, just how much activity may be permitted in patients with lung tuberculosis depends upon the severity of the condition. The doctor makes a careful study, including an X-ray of the chest, and then he can determine the amount of exercise that may be allowed.

The important point is that long periods of bed rest are not needed by many of those who have tuberculosis and, in some cases, may actually be harmful. And, of course, those who have tuberculosis germs in their sputum must be separated from well people, and especially from infants and children.

STARS SAY—

For Thursday, December 12

A SUDDEN and probably spectacular event or circumstance may have power to hold up sound progress born of industry, shrewd and practical ideas and plans, the endurance and patience of the past few days, or more. This might be due to the strange or unexpected attitude of some person of erratic or quixotic temperament, or some other unaccountable visitation. Credit, ambitions, business and personal life may be complicated, and the best advice is to meet dire situations with sagacity, determination and perserverance, tenaciously holding on to whatever ground promises security and long-range benefits.

The Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be suddenly confronted by a situation of peculiar or spectacular origin, which threatens to radically upset or postpone many benefits and resources already well on the road to established endurance and long-term security. An error of judgment or possibly the queer advice of an erratic or emotional person may precipitate this. The soundest advice is to hold firmly to all basic foundations and continue to work with shrewd grasp of menacing factors, and with determination, fortitude and as well certain subtle strategies, since there are hidden sources, propitious and encouraging.

A child born on this day will need steadfast, diligent and farseeing fortitude to avert loss from sudden buffets or strange reversals in life.

SYNOPSIS

When Dr. Philip Raider and his wife, Sheila, decided divorce was the only solution to their incompatibility, Sheila, anxious to continue her business career in St. Louis, agreed Philip could have custody of their five-year-old daughter, Mary, who had lived in Colorado Springs with Sheila's mother since she was two. Philip, happy to have his small daughter again, comes to Denver to be the associate of Dr. Somers, but Mary, thoroughly spoiled by her grandmother, presents a problem to kindly Mrs. Lane, at whose boarding house they live. Among the Lanes' other guests are attractive Anne Bowman and her friend, Jean Fay, owners of a local beauty shop; Roddy Malone, with whom Jean is in love, and elderly Mr. Grey. Had it not been for Anne's sympathetic understanding of Mary's problems, Philip would have had a difficult time curbing his unruly offspring.

Sally, Mrs. Lane's married daughter, leaves her small son, Billy, with her mother while she does some necessary shopping, and Mary, jealous of Philip's attention to the boy, provokes a fight with him.

Later, Philip confides his troubles to Dr. Somers and is advised by him to marry again.

He dismisses the suggestion as impractical, but one day soon after, as he and Anne sat contentedly talking in the park while Mary played nearby, it dawned on him how lucky he was to have the friendship of a girl like Anne.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

"WHICH OF your parents did you care more about?" Anne asked. "Which did you get along with better?"

"My mother. But I managed to get along with both, pretty well. Dad was rather unimaginative. He was a firm believer in the Golden Rule, but sometimes Mother and I used to think that we didn't want to be done by as he did."

Anne nodded. "There IS a flaw in that rule. And what about your mother?"

"She was sweet," Philip answered simply. "She spoiled people, of course, but she wasn't mawkish about it. She was lots of fun."

"I bet you're like her," Anne said impulsively.

He shook himself slightly. "Sometimes I'm afraid I'm a little too much like her. She made a better woman than she would have a man. A man needs some iron in him to get along, especially a doctor."

"I should have said a doctor needed sympathy more than anything else," Anne said in surprise. "Oh, I don't mean softness and pity, and all that, so much," she added hastily. "I mean—"

"Perception?" he suggested with a smile. "But don't you see that the more perception you have, the tougher you need to be? Soft people close their eyes to things—that's their natural armor—but if you're going into the ring, you have to keep your eyes open—until your opponent closes them for you anyway."

"I see," said Anne. "And of course, if you think it's appendicitis, you have to go ahead and operate, and take a chance on its being pneumonia."

"And not let it get you down, either," he supplemented.

"I should think working with children would be the hardest of all."

"In a way it is," he admitted. "But there's usually something to do for children. We can't keep adults healthy, no matter what we do, but we can go a long way towards keeping children well. A lot of a pediatrist's work comes under the head of preventive medicine."

"So you really don't need to be so awfully hard-boiled?"

"Not so awfully. But when you do make a mistake, you hate it just that much worse," he added.

"Of course you do."

They were silent a while. Anne was a restful person to be with, he thought. She would have made a good nurse. He'd certainly like to have her in their office instead of the inefficient, middle-aged secretary that Somers, for some obscure reason, couldn't be persuaded to part with.

He looked at his watch and sat up, stretching a little. "D'you suppose we could pry Mary off that slide now?" he asked. "I've an appointment in an hour."

They watched the yellow dress going slowly up the steps and coming down again in a great access of speed. Philip got to his feet and gave Anne his hand. She smiled up at him as she took it. How could a smile that came so often and so easily, still seem unexpected, he wondered. Yes, she would have made a good nurse.

"You must have a date with Philip tonight," Jean observed when Anne came into the shop the next morning wearing her new pink linen suit.

"I have. We're going to dinner at the home of some friends of Dr. Somers'. Then I think we're all going somewhere to dance."

"Umm. What did we do with our evenings before we got a doctor in the house?"

"Sat at home and read improving books."

"He IS a darling. Too bad he's got Mary."

"Jean!"

"Oh, you know what I mean. Mary's a cute kid, but you could have lots more fun without her."

"Well," said Anne practically, "if it comes to that, Philip probably wouldn't even be here if it weren't for Mary."

"Maybe not."

"Anyhow—oh, Jean, you know it doesn't make any difference. We just go around together because we're handy. He isn't looking for a girl. He just got rid of one. But he can go around with me without starting anything. That's all."

"Can he?"

Anne answered that with a shrug, and went on back to change into her uniform; and Jean, though she had a wicked sparkle in her eye, said no more.

But Anne naturally thought about her words all day. She was still thinking about them when Miss Hilton came in at four. Miss Hilton was one of those priceless customers who, having an appointment for the same day and hour each week, never break it, and are never late.

She was also Mary's teacher, and since she had found out that Mary and Anne lived in the same house, most of her conversation centered on the child.

Anne always encouraged people to talk while she worked on them, and as it slowed her down to have to talk herself, she had become adept at getting them started on something near enough to their hearts for them to carry on unaided. It was, perhaps, because the teacher's anecdotes about her children were more interesting than operations, the cost of living, or even matrimonial difficulties, that Anne liked her so well. Now that she talked about Mary, Anne was really interested.

"I thought I would have Mary adjusted by this time," Miss Hilton began today, "but I'm just as far from understanding her as I ever was. These problem children usually come from broken homes, but Mary seems a little young to be affected by it."

"She's a smart little thing," Anne said, reaching for the vinegar.

"Yes, she is smart, one of the smartest in my class. But she doesn't cooperate. The only time she seems to be happy is when she's the center of the stage. I have to let her take it sometimes to get her on the stage at all. The others don't like her very well, and I don't blame them."

"It's too bad," Anne murmured, holding the spray close to Miss Hilton's face a moment, then shutting off the water and wrapping the girl's head in a towel. They went into the next booth and Miss Hilton sat down while Anne turned on a light and got a comb from the dry sterilizer.

"Mary says her mother lives in St. Louis," Miss Hilton said after a while. "Do you know anything about her?"

"Very little," said Anne. "I never saw her."

"What is her father like?"

"He's awfully nice." Anne wondered if her voice sounded guarded. "He is really a child specialist, and he takes very good care of her. I think he'll bring her out all right."

"Well, I'd like to talk to him about her. I don't think he can understand her very well, or she wouldn't seem so difficult."

"He isn't responsible for that," Anne said. "He hasn't had her very long. But he's coming by here in about half an hour. You may meet him."

Anne had only a finger wave after she finished with Miss Hilton, and she soon had that under the drier. As she turned away, Miss Hilton ducked out from under her hood and reached back to turn off the heat. "I think I'll let it finish itself. It's too hot to sit here."

GRASP THAT CHANCE

YOUR CONTRACT may be impossible against perfect defense. But that sort of resistance is not an everyday commodity at the social bridge table—or any other table since King Arthur's big round one. Often a single slip by the oppcsition, in a close question, is all you need to give your skill full play. If you grasp that one chance offered you, and come through with the skillful technique which is necessary, you can call yourself a bridge player.

East considered his 3-Diamond bid not merely as a rescue—since his only side high card for a reentry at No Trumps was where it probably would be trapped by South's suit—but as a mild invitation to West to put the side into a No Trump game if he was extra strong or had several diamonds. West's hand was such, however, that he had to treat the bid as a rescue.

Just enough help was given East to let him distinguish himself. The spade 3 was led, the Q winning and the heart 7 coming back. South decided to win with the A and return the J, which the Q won. The diamond J was then led, the A scoring, and South returned the heart 9 for North to ruff.

Right there North could have set the contract with the spade A, but he was afraid of setting up the K, since East had played the J the first time. So he returned a diamond instead to avoid helping the declarer build tricks. East then ran his diamonds and built a neat squeeze. As he led the last to the tenth trick, he discarded the spade K from dummy, leaving three clubs and holding himself the spade 10 and two clubs. North, with the spade A and three clubs, was licked. Discarding the spade A would set up the 10, so he threw off a club. Thereupon the club A, K and 9 got the last three tricks.

Up to another morning of fog, of which we seem to be getting much more than our share this year. But behind the fog clear sky and bright sun. Waved top of the morning to George, drank coffee and cranked the wagon for the downtown trip. Out of the post got a letter telling of a needy family of man, wife and children. Asked authorities for the record, but found none and decided on personal investigation. If the letter is true the scrivener will have a mighty fine Christmas. Could it really be that here is a family in great need and yet too proud to ask help? Recent history indicates otherwise, yet it is a possibility.

Found the plant carrying on so headed out over the paves. Met up with Clark Will, Bill Radcliff and Jack Dunlap and made it a foursome at coffee. Talked of the rush of Christmas and how there always is entirely too little time between the decision to buy and the holiday's arrival.

In and out of the stores, noting some mighty fine merchandise and very little of it priced as high as I really anticipated when price restrictions were lifted. Do miss the snow. That is when I like to shop. At night with the lights bright and snow drifting down. Think that most of the shoppers this year feel the same way, for I have seen little of the spirit of Christmas in the faces I have scanned. When you see women limping and all fagged out they do not yet have the Yule spirit. When they really get the spirit they have no thought at all for the tired puppies.

Ed Schlegel, the Ashville mortician, was in, bringing with him a toy dresser made of curley maple and as fine a bit of craftsmanship as I ever have seen. Part of a bedroom suite comprised of dresser, four-poster bed and chest of drawers. All to scale and made exactly the same as the finest of furniture. Two suites completed, one for each of two little girls who will be mighty happy Christmas morning. Was invited up to look over a dining room suite now in the making. And intend going, for I find much of interest in Ed's shop.

Jim Yost called greetings from the top of one of the Christmas tree decorations at Court and Main. Installing the colored lights. Saw George Crites, but had no opportunity to learn first-hand about the new plane he has bought. Chatted with the prosecutor and passed the time of day with John Hummel. Also some cash, for policies were due. Sometimes in cases like that I envy the wild animals with no expense of the day, no worry of the future, plenty of housing, food for the taking. And no interest in what the world is coming to.

Goble was expected to carry on in the dual role of state adjutant general and as selective service director at least until the present selective service law expires March 31, 1947.

Goble was named finance officer for the Ohio National Guard in 1921 and to the same post for the 37th division in 1933. In August, 1939, he was named U. S. property and disbursing officer by General Light, and went to the war department the following year as procurement and contracting officer for selective service.

PRIEST MAKES YULETIDE PLANS FOR EXPLORERS

Bandleader Turned Padre To Lead Christmas Program On Polar Expedition

By LEE VAN ATTA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ABOARD THE BYRD SOUTH POLE EXPEDITION FLAGSHIP AT SEA, Dec. 12 — If there's a merry Christmas for the officers and men aboard this Antarctic expedition flagship, the thanks of nearly a thousand men will be due an ex-bandleader turned priest.

For whether in the Pacific, the Atlantic or the Antarctic, Father William Menster has always believed there's been some good way to observe the yuletide.

And Christmas, 1946—a somewhat lonely Christmas for the men who will be at sea bound for Little America—is no exception to the 34-year-old padre.

Ever since days before the expedition sailed from Norfolk, Father William has been busy preparing yuletide surprises for the comparative handful of men who will be the farthest from home this second Christmas of peace.

There'll be a special ship's orchestra—assembled by the padre—and a full-fledged choir will song on Christmas eve and Christmas day.

Lengthy huddles with stewards aboard the Mount Olympus and with mess officer Lieutenant A. H. Ohlson has resulted in a menu which is conservatively expected to surpass the best "stateside" has to offer. The menu is complete from soup to nuts with nearly a pound of turkey per person set aside for every officer and man.

Miniature Christmas trees—not real trees but at least green—were taken aboard in Panama and hastily hidden away in refrigerators.

There'll be a Christmas play, too; nothing religious but a lighthearted satire on Navy life, Antarctic explorers and the woes of the briny deep in general.

As Father William says.

"There's no use trying to pretend that a ship 9,000 miles from home is anything like home at Christmas. So we aren't going to try. We'll just do everything we can for them and hope they can fill in some of the niches themselves.

"You know, being away from home at Christmas in time of peace just isn't like war. In war you have a real reason; it's a little harder to understand when the firing stops."

Father William, who holds the rank of lieutenant commander, matches his philosophy with as active a program of outside-the-church help as he can. His library is some 2,000-volumes strong, especially picked for light and easy reading on icy nights in the Antarctic.

He's the guiding spirit behind the ship's athletic program and carries on the battle for more films, better films and an equitable distribution program.

He's an accomplished tenor, plays a mean swing organ and likes to strum the guitar with a song or two added at least a half-dozen times a day.

BEBE AND BEN GET WAR MEDALS

BEBE DANIELS and husband, Ben Lyon, are decorated at March Field, California, by Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker for their "exceptionally meritorious service" during the war. Miss Daniels' citation praised her for "recording voices of wounded Yanks at a battalion aid station 600 yards behind front lines in Normandy." (International)

EUROPE PLANTS FACE PROBLEM FINDING STEEL

CLEVELAND, Dec. 12 — The question facing European manufacturers today is where will they secure steel they formerly got from Germany.

That was the report brought back to Cleveland by N. C. Clarke, senior vice president of the Republic Steel corporation at the conclusion of a trip through nine Scandinavian and central European countries.

"Mills of France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Luxembourg are operating between 60 and 75 per cent of normal," he said, but added that "the steel they feed into the continent's wrecked industries does not compensate for the cut in German production."

German's tonnage has been slashed from a prewar output of 20,000,000 tons to a 7,000,000 ton maximum, Clarke explained.

The Cleveland industrialist said he heard no criticism of the allied control commission for limiting the former Nazi country's war potential.

Czechoslovakia, the only country producing a surplus of steel, faces a transportation problem because ports through which mills normally ship were badly damaged by the war, according to Clarke.

He also reported great interest of European manufacturers in American production but "they were surprised when I told them we were shorter of steel than they were."

Clarke ruled out the possibility of America selling any steel abroad because "American industrial requirements which right now need all the steel we can produce, come first."

INDICTED FOR MURDER

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12—Morris M. Catten, 26, Columbus, was under indictment by the Franklin county grand jury today for first degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting of a 60-year-old pawnshop owner.

TEACHER WORKS DURING NIGHTS AS BARTENDER

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—A New York school teacher who works six nights a week as a bartender for an extra $60 said today that his school board salary simply didn't provide enough money for a decent living.

The teacher is Philip P. Lynch, 33, who gets $50 a week teaching social sciences at the Edgar D. Shimer junior high school, five days a week, and tends bar six nights.

A former Army lieutenant who saw service in Japan and Korea Lynch said he didn't know whether he would be permitted to keep both jobs.

JEWELS MISSING

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 12—Atlanta police today were investigating the reported disappearance of $30,000 worth of jewelry in the Winecoff hotel fire which cost the lives of 122 persons last Saturday.

HARMONY RULES IN REPUBLICAN RANKS OF OHIO

Reported Rift Among Top GOP Leaders Denied At Columbus Meeting

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12—All was sweetness and light again today in Ohio Republican party ranks after a meeting of the state central and executive committee successfully resolved what appeared to be a dispute between state headquarters and the Cincinnati leadership.

Everybody at the Columbus meeting denied the rift actually occurred and joined in praising the campaign work of State Chairman Fred H. Johnson, who was tendered a vote of thanks by the committee membership. He was thanked also by Gov.-Elect Thomas J. Herbert; U. S. Sen.-Elect John W. Bricker, and National Committeewoman Katharine Kennedy Brown.

Nevertheless, there was some slight question as to his action in insuring if either of two Cincinnati state senators were interested in opposing veteran senate majority leader Frank E. Whittemore as the senate's floor leader.

Whittemore was re-elected unanimously to the post when the two Cincinnations—Stanley McKie and Fred J. Reiners—declined to run against him. However, the Cincinnati party leadership reportedly was incensed that Johnson had attempted to run a candidate against Whittemore, since the Akron senator had been pledged support of the Cincinnati senatorial delegation.

The discussion in the committee meeting was touched off by Edward M. Stanton, of Cleveland, who asked about published reports of the party "discord."

Johnson said he knew of none, and then former state chairman Ed D. Schorr, now leader of the Cincinnati party machine, also denied that he had, as reported, "donned war paint" against Johnson's leadership.

Schorr did say, however, that he had heard the reports that Johnson had attempted to enter McKie or Reiners against Whittemore.

Johnson then said he wanted no discord in the party; that a constructive program needed aggressive and united leadership, and denied flatly that he had actually proposed either of the two Cincinnati senators as a candidate.

All he did, he said, was to inquire if they were interested. When they said they were not, Johnson reported, he let the matter drop. Later, however, he said that "I would have supported McKie if he had been a candidate," but that "I wouldn't know Reiners if he came in that door."

Everybody seemed satisfied with the explanation, including Schorr, and the matter was permitted to die. Johnson then said he would name a committee to work with Columbus civic groups in preparing for Herbert's inauguration January 13, and the session adjourned.

Earlier, the finance committee reported that the party machine had cleared all financial hurdles in the campaign and still had some $50,000 in its coffers.

Assignment: America

feeling of fellowship was there, just the same.

And that is what I doubt that Runyon ever knew . . .

I doubt that he knew that the manager of the hotel Aletti in Algiers had a Runyon book on his shelves. I doubt that he knew that the young student in Rome had "Runyon ala carte" in a preferred position beside the fireplace. I doubt that he knew that in Paris they asked about Johnny One-Eye and the Lace-Work Kid, or that in Brussels they felt that if you didn't know Mindy's, you probably weren't an American . . .

Undoubtedly he died, not knowing what he had contributed to the American scene for all the world to see. And up there in Valhalla, he must be arguing tonight that he was a failure, that he didn't preach every time he touched a typewriter.

And I only hope that the men with whom he's arguing—you know, Edgar Allen Poe, O. Henry, Stephen Foster and the rest—finally convince him that he did more than somewhat all right, just as he was . . . Damon Runyon, plain or ala carte . . .

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

DOYLE LEADING POINTMAKING IN COUNTY LEAGUE

Five Games Carded Again Friday Night; Winners Are Predicted

Jack Doyle, New Holland, leads the scoring in the Pickaway county basketball league, according to figures released Thursday by Bob Tootle.

In five games the New Holland forward has made 32 baskets and 10 foul shots for a total of 74 points.

In second place are his teammate, Jim McCown, and Pickaway forward Ogan, with 72 points. Ogan has played in five games and McCown in four.

Other leaders are Picklesimer, Williamsport, 59; Ballard, Saltcreek, 54; Bill Trego, Ashville, 52; Pontius, Walnut, 51; Hix, Monroe, 50; Harmount, Pickaway, 46; Luckhart, Saltcreek, 43; Stone, New Holland, 40.

Jim Cornhill's dope sheet makes these predictions for this Friday:

Ashville to win over Jackson by 27 points; Pickaway to beat Scioto by 19 points; Monroe to defeat Washington by 16; Saltcreek to margin Atlanta by 5 and Walnut to win over Williamsport by 4 points.

Cornhill's record to date is perfect as far as picking winners, although his scores have missed some times.

IRISH MAY BE DROPPED FROM BIG 9 SCHEDULES

CHICAGO, Dec. 12—The possibility of discontinuing future football relations with Notre Dame formed an important though hardly-publicized, point today on the agenda as 125 Big Nine moguls convened for the annual three-day western conference December meeting.

Authoritative Big Nine sources revealed that, as soon as existing commitments for future games have been fulfilled, Big Nine football teams may shut Notre Dame out.

Among the reasons given were:

1. Conference teams can make just as much money playing among themselves and with other independent or conference clubs.

2. Notre Dame is actually too tough for Big Nine teams. When you play Notre Dame, you lose two games—the Notre Dame game and the game the week after. This does not imply that Notre Dame plays dirty football—it's just that the competition is too rugged.

Support for that second point could be derived from the fact that three of the four Big Nine teams played by Notre Dame this year went on to lose the week after they met the Irish.

Among "possibility" on the calendar for the western conference meetings is that of holding the annual winter indoor track meet in the University of Chicago fieldhouse next March.

Although the U. of C. is no longer a member of the Big Nine, its fieldhouse is one of the best in the country, besides being centrally located. It's known that Chicago would welcome the chance to play host.

NEW HOLLAND 5 SCORES 56 - 31 OVER REESVILLE

New Holland cagers racked up another victory Wednesday night, defeating Reeseville, one of the leading Clinton county teams, by a 56-31 score.

Superintendent - Coach Ray Blackburn said the total was eight points more than any team has scored this season against the New Hollanders, who have an opponents' average of 19. He also praised the work of Polk, visiting guard, who collected 11 points, highest individual effort against New Holland to date.

Big Jim McCown led the winners with 23 points. Jack Doyle got 14 in the first half. New Holland led 29-1 at the half and reserves played much of the second half.

HOUSE OF DAVID TEAM WINS HERE

Bearded Beauties, Columbus Pros Put On Exhibition Game At Roll-Bowl

House of David basketball players clowned their way to a 37-33 win over Columbus pros at Roll and Bowl Wednesday night.

The 'bearded beauties' exhibited fancy pass work and some good shooting at times during the rather slow game before a medium-sized crowd. Paul Short with 13 points and "Tiny" Faulkner with 10 were high point men.

The game was close all the way and very rough with the referees instructed to call fouls only under the baskets. Bald Bill Steinecke and noisy "Ham" Hamilton, who claims a record of having played in nearly 2,000 games without a minute out, brought the crowd many laughs with their clowning.

"Squint" Phares got 9 points for the pros. Beryl Drummond, former Waterloo Wonder, who plans to join the House of David team when it leaves this part of the country, collected 8 points.

In a preliminary Eshelman Feeds won 42-24 over Clarksburg. Jack Hennis led the Eshelman team with 13 points and Max McPherson's six was high for Clarksburg.

Columbus Pros are scheduled to return here soon, bringing with them an outstanding traveling pro team.

TIGERS TRAVEL TO WILMINGTON FOR LOOP GAME

Hurricane Has Lost Only SCO Game Played So Far, Bowing To Greenfield

Circleville high school Tigers take to the road again Friday night to play a South Central Ohio basketball league game at Wilmington.

Each team has identical records in the SCO play to date, one loss. While the Tigers were bowing to the big Chillicotheans last Friday, the Wilmington Hurricane was taking a 35-23 defeat in a rough game at Greenfield.

Cleo Hamilton led the Hurricane with eight points at McClain. Other first team men are Cartwright, Harcum, Baker and Zurface. Also participating in the Greenfield contest were Bryson Summers, Foland, Fife and Breuleux.

Coach John Daugherty was hoping Thursday his charges will "snap out of it" and score a win Friday night. Bob Steele is expected to be in better health than he was Tuesday and the coach is keeping his fingers crossed in the hope no other boys get ill.

If all the boys stay well, Coach Daugherty probably will use his regular lineup of Steele, Paul Smallwood, Bob Eccard, Bob McCoy and Glenn Smallwood. "Red" Crawford, who looked good in the last quarter of the game at Ashville, also probably will see quite a bit of action.

Reserve teams of the two schools will meet in a preliminary to the varsity contest.

PHIL GORDON, STONEROCK SET BOWLING PACE

Phil Gordon's 211 was high single game score and Harold Stonerock's 572 high series in the Wednesday night bowling league at Roll and Bowl.

Elks No. 2 won three games from Post Office; Gordon Auto Parts took three from Ford; American Legion won twice over Kiwanis No. 2; Rotary won two from John Deere; Crites Oil took two from Isaly and Jaycee No. 2 shut out Kiwanis No. 1.

Wife Preservers

To save work, omit the ironing of towels and diapers. They are more absorbent if unironed. Most garments made of nylon dry to a nice finish without ironing, and seersucker clothing should be dried on a hanger and smoothed into shape while wet, with only the seams pressed. Busy housewives find ironing only the hems of sheets saves time and effort.

Helpful Hints

When you are measuring shortening, first rinse the measuring cup in cold water. The shortening will come out more easily, not sticking to the cup.

When you do a lot of painting around your house, keep the paint containers, when not in use, tightly sealed in a cool, dry place. Place the oldest ones in front so that they will be used first, and at least once every three months turn the cans bottom side up.

After grating fresh, soft cheese, rub a hard crust of bread over the grater to clean it.

DICK HAYMES SHOW

Barituneful Dick Haymes will assume his usual role of "Harry"—that gent who's always wrong—on "The Dick Haymes Show", Thursday, (9 p.m. EST over CBS). He and Lurene Tuttle clown their way through a vignette spot all about a couple who sign several dealers' lists for a new radio—and then get them all. "The Dick Haymes Show" remains essentially musical and this farcical by-play eventually leads into Dick's vocal of "The Song Is You."

UNLUCKY 13

The lucky (?) woman crowned "Queen For A Day" on the MBS broadcast Friday, (2:30-3 p. m., EST) will supposedly hex all chances for good luck in the future, as she smashes mirrors, trots under ladders, spills salt and otherwise defies a total of 32 superstitions, while being crowned "Superstition Queen," on the traditionally unlucky "Friday, the 13th." However, despite the "Queen's" rash actions, her luck will hold good when Jack Bailey showers her with the gifts, tours and 24 hours of fabulous fun which is the lot of each "Queen For A Day."

Big Four Meeting Nears End

MINISTERS SET TO HOLD THEIR FINAL SESSION

Byrnes, Bevin Have Private Talk; Few Items Left On Council Agenda

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin held a special private conference at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel today prior to what promises to be a wind-up meeting of the big four council of foreign ministers late this afternoon.

The conference aroused some speculation but its exact nature was not disclosed.

A conciliatory mood by the ministers, particularly on the part of Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, expedited an agreement to appoint special deputies for preparatory work in London next month, and also assured the Austrian treaty a full place on the Moscow agenda.

China Bid Up

The major issue to undergo further discussion this afternoon is China's application by letter to Secretary of State Byrnes last October for participation in the drafting of the German treaty. Byrnes is strongly in favor of including China in the Moscow sittings of the council of foreign ministers next March, and told the big four it would be difficult to exclude her.

Molotov stands in direct opposition to this request on the grounds that the Potsdam agreement provides that only the signatories to the German capitulation document can participate in the peace treaty with Germany. Molotov reminded the council that China last Summer asked to be invited to the "peace conference" on Germany, which he also opposed and said China had no right to attend.

Peace Confab Expected

The question of a regular "peace conference" on the German treaty after it is drafted in Moscow by the big four has not been gone into, although apparently there is general anticipation to that effect.

The special deputies for preparing the German draft treaty reports probably will be named in a day or two. The council agreed at last night's session that they should meet in London on Jan. 14, and immediately start hearing the small nations directly interested in the German treaty. These deputies also are to consider the question of procedure in the preparation of the peace treaty.

It also was agreed that similar deputies be designated for consideration of the treaty with Austria, and the drafts prepared by the United States and Britain during the Summer months are to be studied for reference to the council at the Moscow meeting. They prob-

But hot or cold, the foreign ministers are moving to Moscow in March.

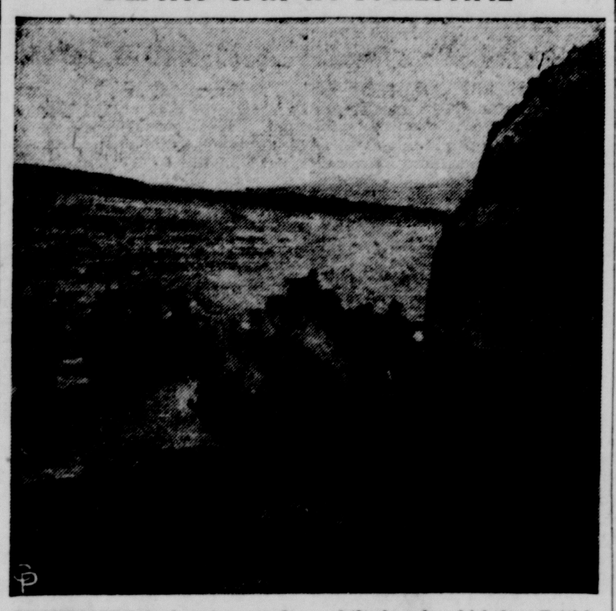

They seem to feel that it would be impossible to negotiate treaties with Germany and Lewis in the same month in the same country.

But the UN security council is making progress. . .Led by some fine old non-democratic states it has decided that Franco's non-democracy must end.

Franco is appealing the use of the injunction in labor disputes by parties who come into court with tattle-tale gray gloves.

200 Telephones Knocked Out When Cable Is Cut

Approximately 200 subscribers of the Ohio Consolidated Telephone company had silent phones Thursday as the result of an accident at the scene of a city sewer project.

Telephones in the northeast section of Circleville were out of order; Ashville was "isolated" and all rural subscribers between Circleville and Ashville had "dead" phones.

The mishap occured Wednesday afternoon when a power shovel in operation by the municipal employes cut into and severed a 100-pair telephone underground cable in the 500 block of North Pickaway street just north of Pleasant street.

The city is installing a storm and sanitary sewer in that area. Severance of the cable cut off the service of all telephones north of Pleasant street and east of North Court street.

Crews of workmen sent to the scene by the Ohio Consolidated Telephone company immediately began the job of splicing the cable. Edwin B. Jury, telephone company manager, said that restoration of telephone service was expected to be accomplished by Friday afternoon.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise cautioned that in the event of a fire in the affected section some delay may be encountered in reporting it to the fire department. He suggested that the alarm be given on the nearest fire alarm box; that if that alarm is not received at the fire station—which he said is very likely—the report must be made from the nearest useable telephone or in person at the fire station.

RAINIER COMBED FOR TRANSPORT

Searchers For Missing Plane Shift Operations To New Location

LONGMIRE, Wash., Dec. 12—The search for a Marine transport plane missing with 32 men aboard was shifted to the southern slope of Mount Rainier today.

The shift was made early in the morning when new reports led search authorities to believe that the plane flew beyond Purcell mountain, where the search centered earlier.

A proposed search of 5,450-foot Purcell mountain in the Cascades was given up. Coast Guard authorities expressed belief late yesterday that the transport was forced down there.

Proposals to investigate reports of a green flare near Toledo, Wash., were discounted by the Army as "rumor and meaningless."

The search will center on an area between 6,000 and 9,000 feet above sea level.

The hunt became confused when a ranger on Mount Rainier reported hearing a plane Tuesday afternoon. A survey of reports from the plane before it disappeared and from persons who said they heard it, also indicated that the transport was heading for Rainier.

Four Coast Guard radio trucks left Randle, the base for the search of Purcell mountain, to set up a new base at Longmire, a forest service station at the gateway to Mount Rainier national park.

At that time new reports led authorities to believe that the

POLICE CAPTURE ROBBERS AFTER $50,000 HOLDUP

DETROIT, Dec. 12—Two armed bandits staged a daring $50,000 daylight bank robbery in Detroit today and then walked straight into the arms of eight policemen.

The pair, identified as 28-year-old Andrew Firth and his cousin, Richard Firth, 27, herded five employes and four customers of the Detroit bank's branch into the vault.

The bank's manager, Robert Burns of Plymouth, told police the bandits then forced him to open a safe in the cashier's cage.

The 50-year-old manager said that it was while Andrew Firth was scooping up the money that he managed to step on the alarm button.

Police Lt. Charles Schwartz said eight policemen assembled at the bank's door a minute and a half after the bank's alarm was sounded.

The police blockade stopped the fleeing bandits and they surrendered without a struggle.

54 PICKETS ARRESTED IN RIOT FACE CHARGES

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 12—Fifty-four persons seized Monday during a strike riot at the West Allis plant of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, faced charges today of unlawful assembly and rioting.

Warrants naming the 54 were obtained by Milwaukee county district attorney William J. McCauley in the latest move by authorities to keep order at the big farm equipment plant.

Blum Agrees To Serve As Premier

PARIS, Dec. 12—At the age of 74, socialist leader Leon Blum resumed captaincy of France today as interim premier.

The newly-elected national assembly, after rejecting Communist nominee Maurice Thorez and middle-of-the roader Georges Bidault, returned Blum to the nation's highest elective office by a vote of 575 out of 590.

Informants quoted the aging Socialist leader as stating:

"To save France in this dark hour, I will take responsibility even if it kills me."

News of Blum's availability produced an immediate favorable reaction in political and financial circles. Stock values increased in trading in the bourse.

Qualified observers believe Blum can be elected despite his anti-Communist position. In recent debate in the Socialist national council he argued against merging with the Communists in a new workers front. The Communists are the largest group in the assembly.

At 74 Blum is regarded, however, less as a Socialist than as a venerable statesman.

His acceptance means that Blum is disregarding his health, which already has reduced his working hours to two daily. It also means that the Socialists seemingly have discarded their reluctance to assume the premiership in the difficult transition period during which the party that heads the government is sure to be impaired.

BYRNES SLATED FOR UN SPEECH

U. S. On Spot As Nations Get Together On Plans For Disarmament

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes was scheduled to make his first appearance today before a body of the United Nations general assembly.

The tangle over disarmament and a proposed count of troops and armaments took America's top diplomat away from his Waldorf-Astoria peace treaty conferences.

The United States was somewhat on the spot as matters stood at the moment. Soviet Russia and Great Britain reached a "gentleman's agreement" that any canvass of troops at home and abroad should include a similar inventory of weapons of war.

This, of course, would include a survey of America's stockpile of atomic bombs.

Byrnes was expected to demand that an international agreement on control of atomic energy be made the keystone of any arms reduction program.

A 20-member sub-committee of the UN political and security committee was meeting this morning shortly in advance of a plenary session of the general assembly to debate disarmament further. Byrnes was to appear either before this group or the assembly.

To date, the secretary of state has remained aloof, although Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov consistently has fought his

VENEZUELA IS NERVOUS OVER REVOLT REPORTS

CARACAS, Venezuela, Dec. 12—Caracas reacted uneasily today to reports from the interior that the rebels were reorganizing as the government stood pat on its announcement that a revolt against the regime of President Romulo Betancourt had been smashed.

Betancourt, who himself came to power as the head of a revolutionary Junta in October, 1945, said the insurgent leaders were fleeing the country.

Other government officials said the leaders were escaping to Colombia. One report said a group had surrendered in the latter country.

AT LEAST EIGHT DIE IN GOTHAM FIRE AND BLAST

Scores Injured And Missing Total High After Wall Falls On Tenement

NEW YORK—Dec. 12—At least eight persons were killed, scores were injured and 38 others were listed as missing today in a five-alarm fire and explosion which ripped through an old ice house and blasted the rear section of an adjacent tenement in upper Manhattan.

Whole families, ranging from a new-born infant through the ranks of children to elderly parents, were feared to be trapped in the two-story pile of shattered masonry and debris.

Police said there were 100 persons in the tenement building when the explosion, believed to have been set off when the flames punctured a tank of ammonia in the ice house, clipped off the rear end of the apartment like a charge of dynamite in a hillside cliff.

In the garish light of emergency equipment, firemen, policemen and other rescuers used everything from hand shovels to two huge cranes to sift the debris for more possible victims.

Police said that over the past couple of years, neighborhood boys occasionally had been caught starting fires in the old ice house. One such small fire was extinguished only yesterday afternoon.

The death toll included a fireman and a boy, both of whom were pulled from the wreckage alive but died later in a hospital.

The fire started at midnight in the unused plant of the Knickerbocker Ice company, in the Washington Heights section—just a few blocks from the world-famous George Washington bridge. Shortly after one o'clock a terrific explosion, probably originating in an ammonia tank, rocked the plant and the adjoining tenement.

The heavy rear wall of the ice house collapsed, and crashed on the apartment building, tearing down the tenement wall and crushing apartments like egg shells as the full impact tore the building wide open.

Tenants ran screaming from the building, blood streaming down their faces. Mothers and fathers, in night clothes, carried their children to safety, climbing over heaps of masonry, plaster and splintered stairs.

In the debris itself arms and legs of the trapped persons could be seen protruding from the wreckage in the garish light of the flames and the many lights focused on the scene by the perspiration-soaked firemen. The voices of others pleading for help could be heard also.

A dozen persons were pulled out within a short time.

Some of those missing, and presumably buried under the heaps of debris, were believed to be firemen.

COLD WAVE DUE TO COVER OHIO DURING NIGHT

By International News Service

Another cold snap was scheduled to envelop Ohio by late tonight, with the mercury plunging to as low as 15 degrees in some parts of the state.

Rain, which was falling today in most places, was scheduled to turn to snow flurries by early morning.

The weather bureau posted storm warnings for Lake Erie, with the prediction that increasing winds would reach velocities of between 35 and 40 miles an hour.

Forecasters said the latest Winter storm was moving southward from upper Lake Michigan. The mercury was down to 4 degrees at Duluth, Minn., this morning and was dropping rapidly everywhere in the path of the disturbance.

Meanwhile, temperatures continued mild in Ohio and were to hit into the high 50's this afternoon.

Soil Conservation Topic At Teachers' Meeting

Soil conservation is vitally needed if Pickaway county is to maintain its crop productivity it was declared by Carl Johnson, Columbus, in an address to approximately 120 rural school teachers, principals and superintendents who attended a dinner meeting Wednesday night in the Jackson township school auditorium at the village of Fox. Johnson several weeks ago was appointed coordinator of conservation education for the state department of education.

Declaring that the wartime drain on natural resources was "staggering", the speaker asserted the situation is "alarmingly critical" and that the "wise use of our remaining resources of soil, water, minerals, forests, and wildlife is imperative if we are to maintain our present standard of living".

Charging that Pickaway county along with the remainder of the nation is "guilty of a national crime", Johnson said that this country's "crop balance figures of 173,000 acres in soil depleting crops and only 17,000 acres of soil building crops is prima facie evidence in any court of justice that the lands of the county are not being presently so managed as to for long maintain their present productivity."

He asserted it is necessary to make students throughout the county conservation-minded.

"The best use of every acre means a higher cash income", Johnson declared, "better foods from those acres, means higher valuation and tax incomes, higher standards of living for those managing the resources, means better schools, higher salaries for teachers, and a guarantee that all this will be maintained indefinitely.

PERSIAN TROOPS CONTINUE DRIVE AGAINST REBELS

TEHRAN, Dec. 12—Government troops who broke Azerbaijan rebel resistance in 41 hours of light fighting rolled on towards the provincial capital of Tabriz today to begin a peaceful occupation.

Jafar Pishevari, Azerbaijan premier who had defied the efforts of the central government to send troops to the province, was reported to have fled across the border to Russia.

The report, unconfirmed by any official source, added that he was accompanied by his lieutenant, M. Danaslian.

(A Tehran dispatch received by the London Daily Telegraph said the Soviet ambassador to Iran had asked the shah to arrange a "pardon" for the escaped Azerbaijan leaders.)

TRUMAN NAMES ATOM EXPERTS TO COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—President Truman appointed a committee of outstanding atomic experts today to advise the atomic energy commission on scientific and technical matters.

The committee, to be known as a general advisory board, will give the atomic energy commission advise on "scientific and technical matters relating to materials, production, and research and development."

NEW CHIEFS APPOINTED

Steelman Named 'Assistant To The President'; No Rent Increase Due

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—President Truman today abolished the office of war mobilization and reconversion, the OPA and a number of other wartime agencies and created an office of temporary controls to liquidate them.

The chief executive said that controls will continue on rents, sugar and rice. Mr. Truman said he knew of no plan for increasing rent ceilings.

The President appointed Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, federal works administrator, as head of the office of temporary controls.

He named Reconversion Director John R. Steelman as an "assistant to the President" and said Steelman will continue as reconversion chief and top White House advisor on labor.

Mr. Truman bluntly declared at his news conference that the strikes which have harrassed the nation since V-J day have prevented him from formally declaring the war at an end.

Other important announcements at the president's first news conference since John L. Lewis ended the 17-day soft coal shutdown included:

1. The President said he will send three separate messages to the new Republican-controlled congress, on strike-curbing legislation, the budget, and the nation's economic situation. He said he will discuss strikes in all three messages.

2. Mr. Truman named Frank Creedon, deputy chief of the civilian production administration, as housing expeditor succeeding Wilson Wyatt, resigned, and Raymond M. Foley to head the national housing agency, an administrative position.

3. By executive order the chief executive abolished the OPA, the CPA and the OES by consolidating them with the OWMR in the office of temporary controls, and abolished the wage stabilization board as of Feb. 24 and the economic stabilization board.

4. The President said he would meet at 3 p. m. (EST) today with new agency heads to discuss the nationwide housing crisis.

5. The President appointed a nine-man committee of atomic energy experts to advise the

NEW FIGHT ON WAGES WATCHED

Industrial Leaders Claim CIO's Report On Big Raise Fallacy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—Industry and labor squared off today for another battle on the former's ability to make substantial wage increase without boosting the price of its products to American consumers.

CIO President Philip Murray fired the opening gun in the CIO's drive for 1947 pay adjustments by unveiling an economic report asserting that business can afford a 25 percent general raise in wages without higher prices.

Industry spokesman, as they did a year ago, promptly challenged Murray's argument as "an economic fallacy."

The battle will reach its climax next month as Murray leads his 750,000 steelworkers into negotiations for higher wages against a background of a new congress intent on curbing economy-crippling strikes in majority industries.

New fuel will be added to the labor-management contest within a week by the first report of President Truman's economic council on government measures

ROOKS PROPOSED AS SUCCESSOR TO LAGUARDIA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—The central committee of UNRRA today nominated Maj. Gen. Lowell W. Rooks to succeed Director-General Fiorello LaGuardia, effective Dec. 31.

Action on the nomination will be taken at tomorrow's plenary session, which is expected to follow the committee's recommendation.

Rooks has served as deputy director-general of UNRRA for the past year and was the chief liquidations officer.

In the resolution nominating Rooks, the committee voiced regret at LaGuardia's resignation and also expressed appreciation of the retiring director general's services.

WITNESSES SAY BILBO HELPED WAR CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—Army witnesses testified today that Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo (D) Miss., by telegram and personal visits, intervened with the war department for a contractor who ultimately won the work on the two and one-half million dollar Jackson air base.

Maj. Gen. Thomas M. Robins, retired, former assistant chief of Army engineers, told a senate war investigating subcommittee that Bilbo called on him "four or five times" in relation to the Jackson project.

Robins said he finally decided to let the contract to the M. T. Reed Construction company, of Belzoni, Miss., because the firm recommended by district engineers was not a Mississippi concern.

6. Mr. Truman announced that he will again ask congress for legislation merging the armed forces into a single department of national defense.

Mr. Truman declined to discuss the matter of tax cuts. He said he would take this up in his congressional messages.

He said Fleming will continue as federal works administrator.

In creating the new agency to liquidate a large portion of the wartime emergency government set-up, the President said that rents, sugar and rice will be kept under price controls.

The President said that he knew of no plans for increasing ceilings on rents. He made this statement in response to a question at his news conference.

OPA Wiped Out

The presidential executive order abolished the OPA, the CPA, and the office of economic stabilization by consolidating them with mobilization and reconversion and merging all into the office of temporary controls.

The wage stabilization board is abolished as of Feb. 24.

The office of government reports is recreated and will take over the functions of the government information service of the bureau of budget and the advertising and motion picture divisions of the reconversion agency.

OCS Transferred

The office of contract settlement was transferred to the treasury department. Certain functions of the wage stabilization board will be placed under the department of labor.

The President said that the office of temporary controls will be responsible for carrying out the functions of OPA, CPA and certain activities of OWMR which continue in effect.

The President said that the priorities powers of CPA expire March 31, except for building materials, unless extended by congress.

He said that the principal OPA programs which continue under law are sugar rationing and rent control. He said that the functions of the economic stabilization board already have been largely terminated as a result of decontrol of prices and wages and elimination of most items from rationing.

Economy Seen

Mr. Truman said that the consoldiation "will result in economies of operation, and in a more rapid liquidation of personnel, property, records, etc., which are no longer needed for current programs."

He said that although the reconversion program has not been completed, actions already taken "materially lessen the need for continuing a separate OWMR."

The OWMR advisory board will be continued for a short time. The president said members of the board have asked to be relieved of their duties at the earliest practicable date.

To Discuss Housing

Steelman, and a small staff, will continue to serve as liaison between the executive agencies and the President's commission on higher education, as well as chairman of the President's scientific research board.

The President said he will meet with the new heads of agencies appointed this morning at 3 o'clock this afternoon to decide what is to be done about the housing program.

The President said that all wartime agencies will terminate on the dates provided by law unless congress decides otherwise.

Silent On Lewis Case

The chief executive declined to discuss the recent United Mine Workers walkout. He observed that the John L. Lewis matter is now before the courts.

Mr. Truman was asked if he hoped the supreme court would keep the recent election reports in mind in its deliberation of the UMW case before it.

The president replied that no one should seek to influence the courts.

The chief executive declined to discuss any request he may make to congress concerning labor legislation.

Must Await Message

Asked if he planned to recommend modification of the Wagner act, the chief executive replied that nobody has the right to quote him until his message to congress has been delivered.

The President was reminded that Republican leaders at a recent Washington meeting had announced they would not go along with any "radical" program laid down by the White House.

Mr. Truman replied that he refused to define the word "radical" and that the program he recommends in his annual and budget messages to congress next month will be designed for the welfare of the United States, and would be his viewpoint.

The President said he had not read the report of former government economist Robert Nathan which said that wage rates should be raised from 12 to 25 per cent.

county are as smugly complacent as are some Pickaway county farmers you will do nothing. Obviously you cannot be so accused because we have seen and heard of some fine conservation teaching in your county and know that many more of you would be contributing to the conservation point of view if you had more information. This problem is, in the final analysis, your problem. But if you want to help yourself you now know you will have many helpers."

J. O. Eagleson submitted a report of the Ohio Education Association district meeting last week at Chillicothe.

Other speakers included Dr. Roscoe Eckelberry, Columbus, of the bureau of educational research, Ohio State University; Jack Shriver, Columbus, district conservation officer; and Larry Best, Pickaway county agricultural agent.

Richard Valentine, music instructor at the Walnut township school was in charge of the musical program and sang a solo. Vera Jean Rhoads, Jackson township student, presented a tap dance.

Brice Connell, superintendent of the Darby township school and president of the Pickaway County Teachers Association, was toastmaster.

The meeting followed a turkey dinner served by members of the Jackson township Parent-Teacher Association of which Mrs. Fannie Brooks is president.

BYRNES SLATED FOR UN SPEECH

government's battles in both committee and assembly.

General theme of the Byrnes speech was expected to be that there should be agreement within the atomic energy commission on prohibition of the atomic bomb and all other mass destruction weapons before the world states began reducing their armies, navies and air forces.

Britain's Sir Hartley Shawcross involved the situation—from an American viewpoint—by insisting that a big three compromise demand for a foreign-soil and "at home" troops census be accompanied by an armaments count—with "verification" by a special united nations commission.

COLUMBUS STREET CAR MEN GET 15 PCT. RAISE

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12—Columbus streetcar and bus operators, who struck for 25 days in October, won a 15-cent-an-hour wage increase and free rides from a three-man arbitration board today.

The board, which was appointed as part of the agreement under which the 645 striking employes of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company ended their walkout, rejected the union's demand for pay for six holidays if not worked and double pay if worked.

The pay provisions are not retroactive.

necessary to maintain full employment and a prosperous economy.

Shortly after the first of the year the President will transmit the council's recommendations to congress.

Still another document having a vital bearing on labor's 1947 wage campaign will be the report Jan. 31 from the advisory committee of the office of reconversion on the practicability of guaranteed annual wages—a CIO strongpoint.

The 1947 demands by CIO's "big three" unions—automobile, steel and electrical—are expected to be in the neighborhood of $2-a-day. The ultimate settlement may be appreciably lower.

COLUMBIAN CASE TO BE PRESENTED TO GRAND JURY

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 12—Evidence against the racial-baiting Columbians, Inc., will be presented to a grand jury tomorrow while evidence pours in that the structure of the organization is crumbling under the revelations of ex-members and espionage agents.

With the presentation of evidence to the Fulton county grand jury by Solicitor General E. E. Andrews less than 24 hours away, Atlanta police reported that another member of the Columbians is ready to talk.

R. L. Whitman, of Atlanta, was reported by authorities to have turned over a membership list to police and to have turned in Columbian insignia and equipment.

Whitman, a section leader for the organization, is facing trial on charges of disorderly conduct.

Meanwhile, two warrants charging assault and battery were sworn out by Ira Jett, one of the leaders of the Columbians, against Mario Buzzi, undercover agent for the non-sectarian anti-Nazi league.

Jett alleged that Buzzi assaulted him at a downtown hotel where Jett had gone to surrender to sheriff's deputies. Buzzi, together with Renee Forrest, had done espionage work within the Columbians on behalf of the anti-Nazi league.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

A Grand American Tradition

The Cuppers had a grand old family reunion last week—for the first time since the war.

Big and little Cuppers came, by car and train, from as far west as Nebraska and as far east as Vermont. They crowded Dee and Jane's house, set up quarters in the barns, or stopped with neighbors—and a jollier gathering you couldn't have imagined!

I was asked to their final Saturday night supper, when they sang old songs, drank beer and cider, reminisced. Dark Cuppers and blonde ones—Vermont accents and Alabama drawls—doctors and farmers . . . all with their differences of taste and politics, yet as close and harmonious in spirit as a group could be.

From where I sit, it's a great American tradition—not just family reunions, but the ability to get along as one harmonious family, regardless of differences of taste—whether it's taste for politics or farming, beer or cider.

ably will be the deputies dealing with the German treaty.

Moscow Subjects Planned

The big four, once agreed on the question of deputies, found little further trouble in setting up a general agenda of six main points for the Moscow meeting. On Molotov's insistence, the American proposal for limitation of European occupation forces was left off, but with the specific Russian assurance that the matter would be discussed in Moscow.

The only serious question still open aside from Germany on the council books is that of the long-term financing of the free territory of Trieste, which will have to be dealt with this afternoon.

NEW PLANS FOR WAR VETERANS CLASSES MADE

Third School May Have New Classes For Training Of Ex-Servicemen

Veterans' classes in agriculture under the joint sponsorship of the Pickaway county board of education and the Veterans Administration are now being taught at two rural schools in the county and County Supt. of Schools George D. McDowell said Thursday that steps are under way to inaugurate the on-the-job training in a third school.

However, before this can be accomplished, Supt. McDowell explained, formal approval must be obtained from the Veterans Administration, necessary finances must be arranged for, and a qualified instructor must be engaged.

Classes of World War II veterans enrolled in the vocational agricultural training groups are now filled, Supt. McDowell said, and there are a sufficient number of applicants to form a class at a third school in Pickaway county.

The instructors at the two classes at the Jackson township school are Hilis Hall and Bernard Ball, and Joseph Peters is the teacher of the class at the Walnut township school.

All of the instructors are thoroughly experienced in farm work.

In a recent conference of Hall and Ball with J. A. Muster, county conservationist, and Cornell Copeland, Farm Security Administration district director, ways and means of coordinating the agricultural agencies were discussed.

The major purposes of the training classes is to give veterans all possible information to further their desire to become established in farming as a vocation. County Agent Larry A. Best, at a recent conference, outlined farming prospects in the county next year.

Co-operating with the movement, Circleville implement dealers have agreed to give the training groups essential information concerning the operation and care of individual pieces of farm machinery and equipment.

Field trips are being planned to get first-hand information on agricultural problems and jobs to be done by the veterans as farm operators.

MOTHERHOOD IN BEAR FAMILY HITS NEW LOW

CINCINNATI, Dec. 12—Motherhood in the species ursus maritimus has hit a new low at the Cincinnati zoo.

Ursus maritimus is one of the hardier species of the animal world, being the polar bear which inhabits the frigid Arctic regions.

However, Aurora, the Cincinnati zoo's female of the species, didn't do so well when she gave birth to twins. One of the cubs was accidentally crushed to death before attendants discovered the births. But a worse reflection on the softening effects of life in the temperate zones was yet to come.

Veterinarian Sol G. Stephen disclosed that the surviving cub had been taken from his 400-pound mother and turned over for feeding to a female dog—and a motherly nanny goat.

REP. WEICHEL CONTINUES TO OPPOSE HOME

Ohio Republican Declares Sandusky Home Operated With Convicts There

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—Rep. Alvin F. Weichel (R) Ohio, sought today to stop federal payments of $10,000 monthly to the governor of Ohio for the state soldiers home at Sandusky on the grounds that it is operated with convicts living on the same premises with veterans.

In a telegram to Veterans Administrator Bradley, Weichel declared that he ignored previous requests on the matter and "is violating the law and intent of congress as to the payment of money encouraging convict contact with war veterans in state-operated soldiers homes." He added:

"I am again asking that you deny certification for October, November, December, 1946, and until such time as convicts are removed from the premises occupied by veterans. Congress did not intend that you should assist the state of Ohio to use convict labor, make a profit and not use civilian labor for war veterans."

Weichel, in a similar telegram to Comptroller-General Lindsey Warren, asked that he use every means to stop the payments, declaring:

"General Bradley of the veterans administration is certifying the payment of these sums monthly instead of protecting war veterans against living in convict-operated homes, is encouraging such conduct by paying money to the state of Ohio in support of a convict operated home. I ask that you deny the certification of General Bradley, not pay any moneys to the state of Ohio for federal aid to veterans in the soldiers home at Sandusky, Ohio, until convicts are removed from the operation of this veterans home."

LIQUOR RATION FOR HOLIDAYS TO BE LARGER

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12—The state liquor ration for the Christmas period, beginning Dec. 16 and extending to Dec. 28, was increased to two units today.

Liquor Director Robert M. Sohngen also announced that 15,000 cases of bonded Bourbon would be received before Christmas and would sell ration-free at about $6.50. Twenty-five brands of blended whiskey are also ration-free.

For the first time, permit holders will be allocated 100 per cent of their total weekly average bottle purchases during the first six months of 1942.

HIGH GOALS SET FOR BUCKEYE FARMERS IN '47

Corn, Dairy Cattle, Sheep Quotas Cut But Others Are Boosted

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12—Production goals suggested by national officials for Ohio farmers in 1947 are higher than the totals reached in 1946 except in corn, oats, burley tobacco, dairy cattle, and sheep. Ohio State University rural economists say national farm goals include reductions in those items and also vegetables, potatoes, chickens, and turkeys.

Less corn and oats are suggested because the feed grain supply now is much larger than in several years so there is likely to be considerable carryover of 1946 corn. Reduction in the number of dairy cows does not necessarily mean less dairy products because production per cow can be increased by better feeding.

Suggestions for further cuts in sheep numbers is a reflection of the world wool supply, which is above average levels. Burley tobacco is in plentiful supply, and another big crop of it might topple the market price for that type of tobacco. Wartime vegetable production levels may be too high for peacetime consumption so a decrease is advised both on fresh vegetables and on truck crops for canneries.

The 1947 crop goal increases of most importance are those of wheat, soybeans, and hay. World food supplies are not up to normal and wheat is a universal food for all nations. Soybeans will be needed in larger amounts for the oil which they produce. Hay acreages should go up because inroads have been made on soil fertility.

Slight increases in potatoes, chickens, and turkeys are expected in Ohio when a decrease is indicated for the nation because Ohio does not supply local market demands for those products. This local demand gives Ohio farmers a favorable break over producers in areas where such produce must be shipped long distances.

Worth its wait in Golden Moments

THE first big moment comes, of course, when you step out of your door, and there's your very own Buick, all ready and waiting.

The next one comes when you roll down the street in this handsome creation—and practically feel the eyes of the passers-by following.

You get another lift the first time you meet a hill, and the voice of your Fireball straight-eight engine drops from baritone to bass as it meets the challenge — and tramps the grade down into easy levelness.

Then some night you'll find yourself alone on a quiet moonlit country road—and the whisper of your engine, the soft tread of your coil-sprung wheels, your gentle, cradled, easy stride, will fill your soul with a peace you wouldn't trade for worlds.

The simple truth is that it's not only an automobile you wait for when you wait for a Buick — it's an endless series of sweet satisfactions.

It's not just a matter of size and room and Fireball power and all-coil springing, as any Buick owner will tell you—it's the wonderful way all these add up to make a constant flow of golden moments.

You'd like those moments to start coming soon. So would the whole, hard-hitting crew that's waging relentless war against delays and shortages to produce Buicks for you — and fast.

But the most important thing — when you think it out — is what you get rather than when you get it — and what you really want is found nowhere else but in Buick.

Why not settle your mind on that and be done with it? You can place your order now for future delivery, with or without a car to turn in — though we like to get trade-ins for our used-car buyers.

POTATOES

THE potato is not a beautiful vegetable, but a mighty useful one, and right now is in a strange situation. This year's crop is so big that it seems impossible to handle it in a normal way, and enormous quantities may go to waste. The Secretary of Agriculture at Washington reports that as much as 20,000,000 bushels may be lost unless drastic steps are taken to salvage them. Efforts are made for temporary storage, but millions of bushels may be left in the fields to be ruined by the first heavy frosts.

The ideal way for disposal of this surplus would be to ship carloads to Europe for foreign distribution, but in most cases that is impossible, because it is so difficult to ship and distribute them without spoiling. There ought to be some way to preserve and distribute potatoes better than present methods permit.

Nor are potatoes the only product suffering from maldistribution. Though it is not exactly the potatoes which suffer. They do not much care, we imagine, what happens to them. But the farmers who grow them do, and so do the people who are hungry for them.

IMPORTANT SOUTHERNER

"OUTSTANDING service to the people of the South" gives Gov. Ellis Gibbs Arnall of Georgia the Southern Conference for Human Welfare's Jefferson award for 1946. The fact is that, except perhaps for ex-Secretary of State Cordell Hull, no Southerner in years has so deeply impressed the country.

Among Arnall's services to Georgia are abolition of the poll tax, giving 18-year-olds the right to vote, freeing the state university from political control, and the wiping out of the state debt. His latest achievement has been to bring before the United States Supreme Court the discriminatory freight rates which have handicapped the South for years. His recent autobiography, "Shore Dimly Seen", shows him to have a definite philosophy of life and a captivating literary style.

Under the Georgia constitution Gov. Arnall could not run again this year. But a 39-year-older of his achievements will soon find some other wide outlet for his ideas and energy. It he does not, it will be a national loss.

The British and American rulers of Germany are reviving German trade unions as a bulwark against a Nazi return. In the United States many people's idea of statesmanship is to have unions abolished altogether.

"Work, for the night is coming," says the old hymn. And a fellow sort o' wonders if there will be any strikes over there.

ASSIGNMENT: AMERICA

By Kenneth L. Dixon
Distributed by International News Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—If the readers will bear with a bit of maudlin sentimentality, this is a story devoted to the departure of a friend.

His name is Damon Runyon.

He died a couple of days ago, and I guess his death was duly noted in the news stories and obituary columns. It wouldn't have mattered, anyway.

For Damon Runyon was beyond news stories and obituary columns. He cannot die and isn't dead, because he was—not "had" you understand—the thing we all strive for.

Immortality, I mean.

He never knew he had it, which perhaps is the sad thing. Like Ernie Pyle, who is—not "was" you understand—one of my best friends, Runyon was fated to feel himself always a failure.

Not long ago, a book of his hit the bookstores. Reviewing it in his own daily column, Damon damned it as a perfect example of a man who "carries water on both shoulders." He seemed to regret horribly the fact that he hadn't set out to crusade for the things he thought were right.

He seemed to feel that his was a wasted life. . .

The gist of that bitterly cynical review of his own work seemed to shout that he considered himself a man who had sold his birthright for a mess of something less than pottage—that he deeply and shakenly regretted not having become one of those who sell a sermon with every story.

From far away, I read that review and clipped and saved it. It is seldom that you see an honest man bare his soul for the world to see. Damon Runyon did that.

He seemed to feel that he was at fault because he had taken good pay for writing popular columns and stories through the years without including a moral in each one. He seemed to feel that he had failed, because he had not picked a particular political creed and followed it in every line of fact or fiction that he wrote.

He seemed to feel that he had cheapened the talent that was his by not contributing daily, weekly and monthly to a cause that he approved.

Which means that Damon Runyon thought himself a failure. . .

Somewhere in Valhalla, Damon Runyon roams the streets tonight. Perhaps, in that sanctuary reserved for errant newsmen and writers, there are morning editions of celestial newspapers which are picked up at the corner newstands by the inveterate stay-out-lates—such as Damon.

I hope so, and I hope that the edition Runyon picks up carries this story, for I want to tell him something.

I want to tell him that for nearly three years I roamed the world without finding even a medium-sized city which didn't have a bookstore with a Runyon book on its shelves.

England, Africa, Italy, France, Belgium, Holland—even in Germany, it was all the same. Always, in every language, there were Runyon books, and there were people who felt that Harry the Horse and little Isadore were practically their next-door neighbors.

To them, Runyon had brought, not only entertainment, but also a feeling of fellowship for the human race. Perhaps the entertainment was predominant, but the

DIET AND HEALTH

Bed Rest Can Be Overdone

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE body, like man himself, was made for action and, whenever it is forced into more or less complete inactivity, it is sure to suffer. This is just as true in sickness as it is in health. To be sure, there are numbers of illnesses which demand a period of strict bed rest, but it is just as important not to continue this regime beyond the time it is needed as it is to enforce it when it is.

In tuberculosis of the lung, for instance, nothing is more essential than absolute rest whenever there is fever, cough, marked loss in weight, or night sweats. But when the patient is in good nutrition and practically free of the symptoms mentioned above, complete inactivity may only increase the dangers of this dread disease.

Loss of Strength

It not only means a loss of muscle strength and a disturbance of the working of the various healthy organs of the body, but it increases the patient's fear concerning his condition.

Thus, according to Dr. Harry A. Bray of New York, the patient's resistance is lessened because he is being physically and emotionally undermined.

Two Weeks in Bed

In treating patients with beginning tuberculosis, Dr. Bray suggests that they be put to bed during the first two weeks of observation. The rest in bed is limited to prevent any harmful effects. From the beginning, patients who have no symptoms are allowed to get up to go to the bathroom and to meals.

After this initial period of two weeks, the patient is allowed to rest on an open porch for several weeks, and then begins to have exercises out of doors for periods varying from five minutes to two hours. In addition, the patient is assigned little jobs that take from five minutes to an hour to complete. The entire period of treatment is about seven to nine months.

Results Are Favorable

In 57 out of 67 patients who had had tuberculosis of the lungs for less than a year, the results of this treatment were quite favorable. Of 360 other patients, 97 had previously been in bed for an average period of four months. The results obtained in this group of 360 patients were about the same whether the patient had had previous treatment with rest in bed or not.

Of course, just how much activity may be permitted in patients with lung tuberculosis depends upon the severity of the condition. The doctor makes a careful study, including an X-ray of the chest, and then he can determine the amount of exercise that may be allowed.

The important point is that long periods of bed rest are not needed by many of those who have tuberculosis and, in some cases, may actually be harmful. And, of course, those who have tuberculosis germs in their sputum must be separated from well people, and especially from infants and children.

STARS SAY—

For Thursday, December 12

A SUDDEN and probably spectacular event or circumstance may have power to hold up sound progress born of industry, shrewd and practical ideas and plans, the endurance and patience of the past few days, or more. This might be due to the strange or unexpected attitude of some person of erratic or quixotic temperament, or some other unaccountable visitation. Credit, ambitions, business and personal life may be complicated, and the best advice is to meet dire situations with sagacity, determination and perserverance, tenaciously holding on to whatever ground promises security and long-range benefits.

The Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be suddenly confronted by a situation of peculiar or spectacular origin, which threatens to radically upset or postpone many benefits and resources already well on the road to established endurance and long-term security. An error of judgment or possibly the queer advice of an erratic or emotional person may precipitate this. The soundest advice is to hold firmly to all basic foundations and continue to work with shrewd grasp of menacing factors, and with determination, fortitude and as well certain subtle strategies, since there are hidden sources, propitious and encouraging.

A child born on this day will need steadfast, diligent and farseeing fortitude to avert loss from sudden buffets or strange reversals in life.

SYNOPSIS

When Dr. Philip Raider and his wife, Sheila, decided divorce was the only solution to their incompatibility, Sheila, anxious to continue her business career in St. Louis, agreed Philip could have custody of their five-year-old daughter, Mary, who had lived in Colorado Springs with Sheila's mother since she was two. Philip, happy to have his small daughter again, comes to Denver to be the associate of Dr. Somers, but Mary, thoroughly spoiled by her grandmother, presents a problem to kindly Mrs. Lane, at whose boarding house they live. Among the Lanes' other guests are attractive Anne Bowman and her friend, Jean Fay, owners of a local beauty shop; Roddy Malone, with whom Jean is in love, and elderly Mr. Grey. Had it not been for Anne's sympathetic understanding of Mary's problems, Philip would have had a difficult time curbing his unruly offspring.

Sally, Mrs. Lane's married daughter, leaves her small son, Billy, with her mother while she does some necessary shopping, and Mary, jealous of Philip's attention to the boy, provokes a fight with him.

Later, Philip confides his troubles to Dr. Somers and is advised by him to marry again.

He dismisses the suggestion as impractical, but one day soon after, as he and Anne sat contentedly talking in the park while Mary played nearby, it dawned on him how lucky he was to have the friendship of a girl like Anne.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

"WHICH OF your parents did you care more about?" Anne asked. "Which did you get along with better?"

"My mother. But I managed to get along with both, pretty well. Dad was rather unimaginative. He was a firm believer in the Golden Rule, but sometimes Mother and I used to think that we didn't want to be done by as he did."

Anne nodded. "There IS a flaw in that rule. And what about your mother?"

"She was sweet," Philip answered simply. "She spoiled people, of course, but she wasn't mawkish about it. She was lots of fun."

"I bet you're like her," Anne said impulsively.

He shook himself slightly. "Sometimes I'm afraid I'm a little too much like her. She made a better woman than she would have a man. A man needs some iron in him to get along, especially a doctor."

"I should have said a doctor needed sympathy more than anything else," Anne said in surprise. "Oh, I don't mean softness and pity, and all that, so much," she added hastily. "I mean—"

"Perception?" he suggested with a smile. "But don't you see that the more perception you have, the tougher you need to be? Soft people close their eyes to things—that's their natural armor—but if you're going into the ring, you have to keep your eyes open—until your opponent closes them for you anyway."

"I see," said Anne. "And of course, if you think it's appendicitis, you have to go ahead and operate, and take a chance on its being pneumonia."

"And not let it get you down, either," he supplemented.

"I should think working with children would be the hardest of all."

"In a way it is," he admitted. "But there's usually something to do for children. We can't keep adults healthy, no matter what we do, but we can go a long way towards keeping children well. A lot of a pediatrist's work comes under the head of preventive medicine."

"So you really don't need to be so awfully hard-boiled?"

"Not so awfully. But when you do make a mistake, you hate it just that much worse," he added.

"Of course you do."

They were silent a while. Anne was a restful person to be with, he thought. She would have made a good nurse. He'd certainly like to have her in their office instead of the inefficient, middle-aged secretary that Somers, for some obscure reason, couldn't be persuaded to part with.

He looked at his watch and sat up, stretching a little. "D'you suppose we could pry Mary off that slide now?" he asked. "I've an appointment in an hour."

They watched the yellow dress going slowly up the steps and coming down again in a great access of speed. Philip got to his feet and gave Anne his hand. She smiled up at him as she took it. How could a smile that came so often and so easily, still seem unexpected, he wondered. Yes, she would have made a good nurse.

• • •

"You must have a date with Philip tonight," Jean observed when Anne came into the shop the next morning wearing her new pink linen suit.

"I have. We're going to dinner at the home of some friends of Dr. Somers'. Then I think we're all going somewhere to dance."

"Umm. What did we do with our evenings before we got a doctor in the house?"

"Sat at home and read improving books."

"He IS a darling. Too bad he's got Mary."

"Jean!"

"Oh, you know what I mean. Mary's a cute kid, but you could have lots more fun without her."

"Well," said Anne practically, "if it comes to that, Philip probably wouldn't even be here if it weren't for Mary."

"Maybe not."

"Anyhow—oh, Jean, you know it doesn't make any difference. We just go around together because we're handy. He isn't looking for a girl. He just got rid of one. But he can go around with me without starting anything. That's all."

"Can he?"

Anne answered that with a shrug, and went on back to change into her uniform; and Jean, though she had a wicked sparkle in her eye, said no more.

But Anne naturally thought about her words all day. She was still thinking about them when Miss Hilton came in at four. Miss Hilton was one of those priceless customers who, having an appointment for the same day and hour each week, never break it, and are never late.

She was also Mary's teacher, and since she had found out that Mary and Anne lived in the same house, most of her conversation centered on the child.

Anne always encouraged people to talk while she worked on them, and as it slowed her down to have to talk herself, she had become adept at getting them started on something near enough to their hearts for them to carry on unaided. It was, perhaps, because the teacher's anecdotes about her children were more interesting than operations, the cost of living, or even matrimonial difficulties, that Anne liked her so well. Now that she talked about Mary, Anne was really interested.

"I thought I would have Mary adjusted by this time," Miss Hilton began today, "but I'm just as far from understanding her as I ever was. These problem children usually come from broken homes, but Mary seems a little young to be affected by it."

"She's a smart little thing," Anne said, reaching for the vinegar.

"Yes, she is smart, one of the smartest in my class. But she doesn't cooperate. The only time she seems to be happy is when she's the center of the stage. I have to let her take it sometimes to get her on the stage at all. The others don't like her very well, and I don't blame them."

"It's too bad," Anne murmured, holding the spray close to Miss Hilton's face a moment, then shutting off the water and wrapping the girl's head in a towel. They went into the next booth and Miss Hilton sat down while Anne turned on a light and got a comb from the dry sterilizer.

"Mary says her mother lives in St. Louis," Miss Hilton said after a while. "Do you know anything about her?"

"Very little," said Anne. "I never saw her."

"What is her father like?"

"He's awfully nice." Anne wondered if her voice sounded guarded. "He is really a child specialist, and he takes very good care of her. I think he'll bring her out all right."

"Well, I'd like to talk to him about her. I don't think he can understand her very well, or she wouldn't seem so difficult."

"He isn't responsible for that," Anne said. "He hasn't had her very long. But he's coming by here in about half an hour. You may meet him."

Anne had only a finger wave after she finished with Miss Hilton, and she soon had that under the drier. As she turned away, Miss Hilton ducked out from under her hood and reached back to turn off the heat. "I think I'll let it finish itself. It's too hot to sit here."

Hints on Etiquette

When meeting strangers and shaking hands with them, make your handshake warm and cordial, to carry a feeling of friendliness.

Today's Horoscope

A birthday anniversary today means that you are honest, loving, persevering and unyielding. You are sympathetic, kind, helpful and generous, self-confident and accomplish most of the things you undertake. Your happy-go-lucky manner makes you a favorite with everyone. Conflicting forces are operating today, pulling and pushing. They create psychological confusion. Be determined. A sense of fantasy may may make everything seem most unusual, so enjoy this moment of respite. Peculiar urges may stimulate you also, but resist them. Positively deny yourself a spat or quarrel. Later you will have an impulse to treat yourself to some luxury, but consider whether you really can afford it. Expect delays in social dates, for pleasant surprises are in the offing. Continued delightful fun will come this evening if you are alert for it.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to another morning of fog, of which we seem to be getting much more than our share this year. But behind the fog clear sky and bright sun. Waved top of the morning to George, drank coffee and cranked the wagon for the downtown trip. Out of the post got a letter telling of a needy family of man, wife and children. Asked authorities for the record, but found none and decided on personal investigation. If the letter is true the scrivener will have a mighty fine Christmas. Could it really be that here is a family in great need and yet too proud to ask help? Recent history indicates otherwise, yet it is a possibility.

Found the plant carrying on so headed out over the paves. Met up with Clark Will, Bill Radcliff and Jack Dunlap and made it a foursome at coffee. Talked of the rush of Christmas and how there always is entirely too little time between the decision to buy and the holiday's arrival.

In and out of the stores, noting some mighty fine merchandise and very little of it priced as high as I really anticipated when price restrictions were lifted. Do miss the snow. That is when I like to shop. At night with the lights bright and snow drifting down. Think that most of the shoppers this year feel the same way, for I have seen little of the spirit of Christmas in the faces I have scanned. When you see women limping and all fagged out they do not yet have the Yule spirit. When they really get the spirit they have no thought at all for the tired puppies.

Ed Schlegel, the Ashville mortician, was in, bringing with him a toy dresser made of curley maple and as fine a bit of craftsmanship as I ever have seen. Part of a bedroom suite comprised of dresser, four-poster bed and chest of drawers. All to scale and made exactly the same as the finest of furniture. Two suites completed, one for each of two little girls who will be mighty happy Christmas morning. Was invited up to look over a dining room suite now in the making. And intend going, for I find much of interest in Ed's shop.

Jim Yost called greetings from the top of one of the Christmas tree decorations at Court and Main. Installing the colored lights. Saw George Crites, but had no opportunity to learn first-hand about the new plane he has bought. Chatted with the prosecutor and passed the time of day with John Hummel. Also some cash, for policies were due. Sometimes in cases like that I envy the wild animals with no expense of the day, no worry of the future, plenty of housing, food for the taking. And no interest in what the world is coming to.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

GRASP THAT CHANCE

YOUR CONTRACT may be impossible against perfect defense. But that sort of resistance is not an everyday commodity at the social bridge table—or any other table since King Arthur's big round one. Often a single slip by the oppcsition, in a close question, is all you need to give your skill full play. If you grasp that one chance offered you, and come through with the skillful technique which is necessary, you can call yourself a bridge player.

East considered his 3-Diamond bid not merely as a rescue—since his only side high card for a re-entry at No Trumps was where it probably would be trapped by South's suit—but as a mild invitation to West to put the side into a No Trump game if he was extra strong or had several diamonds. West's hand was such, however, that he had to treat the bid as a rescue.

Just enough help was given East to let him distinguish himself. The spade 3 was led, the Q winning and the heart 7 coming back. South decided to win with the A and return the J, which the Q won. The diamond J was then led, the A scoring, and South returned the heart 9 for North to ruff.

Right there North could have set the contract with the spade A, but he was afraid of setting up the K, since East had played the J the first time. So he returned a diamond instead to avoid helping the declarer build tricks. East then ran his diamonds and built a neat squeeze. As he led the last to the tenth trick, he discarded the spade K from dummy, leaving three clubs and holding himself the spade 10 and two clubs. North, with the spade A and three clubs, was licked. Discarding the spade A would set up the 10, so he threw off a club. Thereupon the club A, K and 9 got the last three tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem

If North bids spades twice, South diamonds twice, and the contract reached is 5-Diamonds, what should West lead?

Mrs. Roland Brentlinger played her piano accompaniment.

Mrs. Richard Plum, chairman of circle 7, presented Mrs. Couch who sang an arrangement of "Oh Holy Night" and played her own piano accompaniment.

Gov.-Elect Herbert Names Ohio Selective Service Chief To Job

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12—Col. Chester W. Goble of Columbus, 54-year-old Ohio selective service director and a member of the Ohio National Guard for 35 years, was named adjutant general today by Gov.-Elect Thomas J. Herbert.

Goble, who won the distinguished service medal and the Army commendation ribbon for his work in handling draft machinery in Ohio, enlisted in the national guard in 1908; won his commission as a field artillery officer in France during World War I, and has been draft director since March 1941, when he succeeded the late Gen. Gilson D. Light. He was made a full colonel in February, 1942.

Goble, a native of Columbus is a Republican, but has never been particularly active in politics. He succeeds Adj. Gen. Donald F. Pancoast, Cleveland Republican named by former governor Bricker and retained by Democratic Governor Lausche.

Goble was expected to carry on in the dual role of state adjutant general and as selective service director at least until the present selective service law expires March 31, 1947.

Goble was named finance officer for the Ohio National Guard in 1921 and to the same post for the 37th division in 1933. In August, 1939, he was named U. S. property and disbursing officer by General Light, and went to the war department the following year as procurement and contracting officer for selective service.

He is a past commander of Franklin Post No. 1, American Legion, and a former Franklin county American Legion council chairman.

CHRISTMAS TREE HIDDEN LIQUOR IS CONFISCATED

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12—A semi-trailer truck containing 275 cases of contraband whiskey disguised as a load of Christmas trees was halted by state liquor agents near Van Wert last night, its driver arrested, and its cargo confiscated.

The driver, Chris Manos, of Chicago, immediately was hailed into the court of Van Wert Mayor Bachel G. Edwards and fined a total of $525 and costs for illegal possession and transportation of liquor.

The rear of the trailer was loaded with Christmas trees to make it appear Manos was carrying the 600 Christmas trees his trucking invoice called for. Manos said he was headed for North Carolina.

PRIEST MAKES YULETIDE PLANS FOR EXPLORERS

Bandleader Turned Padre To Lead Christmas Program On Polar Expedition

By LEE VAN ATTA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ABOARD THE BYRD SOUTH POLE EXPEDITION FLAGSHIP AT SEA, Dec. 12 — If there's a merry Christmas for the officers and men aboard this Antarctic expedition flagship, the thanks of nearly a thousand men will be due an ex-bandleader turned priest.

For whether in the Pacific, the Atlantic or the Antarctic, Father William Menster has always believed there's been some good way to observe the yuletide.

And Christmas, 1946—a somewhat lonely Christmas for the men who will be at sea bound for Little America—is no exception to the 34-year-old padre.

Ever since days before the expedition sailed from Norfolk, Father William has been busy preparing yuletide surprises for the comparative handful of men who will be the farthest from home this second Christmas of peace.

There'll be a special ship's orchestra—assembled by the padre—and a full-fledged choir will song on Christmas eve and Christmas day.

Lengthy huddles with stewards aboard the Mount Olympus and with mess officer Lieutenant A. H. Ohlson has resulted in a menu which is conservatively expected to surpass the best "stateside" has to offer. The menu is complete from soup to nuts with nearly a pound of turkey per person set aside for every officer and man.

Miniature Christmas trees—not real trees but at least green—were taken aboard in Panama and hastily hidden away in refrigerators.

There'll be a Christmas play, too; nothing religious but a lighthearted satire on Navy life, Antarctic explorers and the woes of the briny deep in general.

As Father William says.

"There's no use trying to pretend that a ship 9,000 miles from home is anything like home at Christmas. So we aren't going to try. We'll just do everything we can for them and hope they can fill in some of the niches themselves.

"You know, being away from home at Christmas in time of peace just isn't like war. In war you have a real reason; it's a little harder to understand when the firing stops."

Father William, who holds the rank of lieutenant commander, matches his philosophy with as active a program of outside-the-church help as he can. His library is some 2,000-volumes strong, especially picked for light and easy reading on icy nights in the Antarctic.

He's the guiding spirit behind the ship's athletic program and carries on the battle for more films, better films and an equitable distribution program.

He's an accomplished tenor, plays a mean swing organ and likes to strum the guitar with a song or two added at least a half-dozen times a day.

BEBE AND BEN GET WAR MEDALS

BEBE DANIELS and husband, Ben Lyon, are decorated at March Field, California, by Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker for their "exceptionally meritorious service" during the war. Miss Daniels' citation praised her for "recording voices of wounded Yanks at a battalion aid station 600 yards behind front lines in Normandy." (International)

EUROPE PLANTS FACE PROBLEM FINDING STEEL

CLEVELAND, Dec. 12 — The question facing European manufacturers today is where will they secure steel they formerly got from Germany.

That was the report brought back to Cleveland by N. C. Clarke, senior vice president of the Republic Steel corporation at the conclusion of a trip through nine Scandinavian and central European countries.

"Mills of France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Luxembourg are operating between 60 and 75 per cent of normal," he said, but added that "the steel they feed into the continent's wrecked industries does not compensate for the cut in German production."

German's tonnage has been slashed from a prewar output of 20,000,000 tons to a 7,000,000 ton maximum, Clarke explained.

The Cleveland industrialist said he heard no criticism of the allied control commission for limiting the former Nazi country's war potential.

Czechoslovakia, the only country producing a surplus of steel, faces a transportation problem because ports through which mills normally ship were badly damaged by the war, according to Clarke.

He also reported great interest of European manufacturers in American production but "they were surprised when I told them we were shorter of steel than they were."

Clarke ruled out the possibility of America selling any steel abroad because "American industrial requirements which right now need all the steel we can produce, come first."

INDICTED FOR MURDER

TEACHER WORKS DURING NIGHTS AS BARTENDER

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—A New York school teacher who works six nights a week as a bartender for an extra $60 said today that his school board salary simply didn't provide enough money for a decent living.

The teacher is Philip P. Lynch, 33, who gets $50 a week teaching social sciences at the Edgar D. Shimer junior high school, five days a week, and tends bar six nights.

A former Army lieutenant who saw service in Japan and Korea Lynch said he didn't know whether he would be permitted to keep both jobs.

HARMONY RULES IN REPUBLICAN RANKS OF OHIO

Reported Rift Among Top GOP Leaders Denied At Columbus Meeting

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12—All was sweetness and light again today in Ohio Republican party ranks after a meeting of the state central and executive committee successfully resolved what appeared to be a dispute between state headquarters and the Cincinnati leadership.

Everybody at the Columbus meeting denied the rift actually occurred and joined in praising the campaign work of State Chairman Fred H. Johnson, who was tendered a vote of thanks by the committee membership. He was thanked also by Gov.-Elect Thomas J. Herbert; U. S. Sen.-Elect John W. Bricker, and National Committeewoman Katharine Kennedy Brown.

Nevertheless, there was some slight question as to his action in insuiring if either of two Cincinnati state senators were interested in opposing veteran senate majority leader Frank E. Whittemore as the senate's floor leader.

Whittemore was re-elected unanimously to the post when the two Cincinnations—Stanley McKie and Fred J. Reiners—declined to run against him. However, the Cincinnati party leadership reportedly was incensed that Johnson had attempted to run a candidate against Whittemore, since the Akron senator had been pledged support of the Cincinnati senatorial delegation.

The discussion in the committee meeting was touched off by Edward M. Stanton, of Cleveland, who asked about published reports of the party "discord."

Johnson said he knew of none, and then former state chairman Ed D. Schorr, now leader of the Cincinnati party machine, also denied that he had, as reported, "donned war paint" against Johnson's leadership.

Schorr did say, however, that he had heard the reports that Johnson had attempted to enter McKie or Reiners against Whittemore.

Johnson then said he wanted no discord in the party; that a constructive program needed aggressive and united leadership, and denied flatly that he had actually proposed either of the two Cincinnati senators as a candidate.

All he did, he said, was to inquire if they were interested. When they said they were not, Johnson reported, he let the matter drop. Later, however, he said that "I would have supported McKie if he had been a candidate," but that "I wouldn't know Reiners if he came in that door."

Everybody seemed satisfied with the explanation, including Schorr, and the matter was permitted to die. Johnson then said he would name a committee to work with Columbus civic groups in preparing for Herbert's inauguration January 13, and the session adjourned.

Earlier, the finance committee reported that the party machine had cleared all financial hurdles in the campaign and still had some $50,000 in its coffers.

Assignment: America

feeling of fellowship was there, just the same.

And that is what I doubt that Runyon ever knew . . .

I doubt that he knew that the manager of the hotel Aletti in Algiers had a Runyon book on his shelves. I doubt that he knew that the young student in Rome had "Runyon ala carte" in a preferred position beside the fireplace. I doubt that he knew that in Paris they asked about Johnny One-Eye and the Lace-Work Kid, or that in Brussels they felt that if you didn't know Mindy's, you probably weren't an American . . .

Undoubtedly he died, not knowing what he had contributed to the American scene for all the world to see. And up there in Valhalla, he must be arguing tonight that he was a failure, that he didn't preach every time he touched a typewriter.

And I only hope that the men with whom he's arguing—you know, Edgar Allen Poe, O. Henry, Stephen Foster and the rest—finally convince him that he did more than somewhat all right, just as he was . . . Damon Runyon, plain or ala carte . . .

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Obituary

OBITUARY
NELLIE REBECCA WARNER

Nellie Rebecca Warner, daughter of Jonas and Sally Daily Warner, was born at Commercial Point, Ohio April fifth, 1894 and departed this life December fourth, 1946, aged 52 years, 7 months and 29 days.

She attended elementary school in Scioto Township, Pickaway County and also in Amanda Township, Fairfield County. She attended High School in Madison Township, Pickaway County, from which school she graduated in 1913.

Following her graduation from High School she started teaching in Harrison Township, and spent the remainder of her life in school work, until her affliction forced her to retire. She spent some time in both Wittenberg and Ohio Universities and secured a State Life Elemantary Teachers' Certificate in 1926.

She was a member of the Ashville Methodist Church and took an active part in the church work, until ill health made it impossible for her to attend longer.

The last years of her life was given over to caring for her Mother and she was most patient and loving in performing these duties, even when she was in such poor health that she could hardly care for herself.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her mother, two sisters, Mrs. H. C. Hines of near Ashville, at whose home she died, Mrs. J. H. Homrighouse of Oak Park, Illinois and two brothers, Charles A. of Columbus, Ohio and Lawrence W. of Los Angeles, California.

"Her work is o'er, her toils are past
And she is fully blest.
She fought the fight, the victory won
And entered into rest."

DOYLE LEADING POINTMAKING IN COUNTY LEAGUE

Five Games Carded Again Friday Night; Winners Are Predicted

Jack Doyle, New Holland, leads the scoring in the Pickaway county basketball league, according to figures released Thursday by Bob Tootle.

In five games the New Holland forward has made 32 baskets and 10 foul shots for a total of 74 points.

In second place are his teammate, Jim McCown, and Pickaway forward Ogan, with 72 points. Ogan has played in five games and McCown in four.

Other leaders are Picklesimer, Williamsport, 59; Ballard, Saltcreek, 54; Bill Trego, Ashville, 52; Pontius, Walnut, 51; Hix, Monroe, 50; Harmount, Pickaway, 46; Luckhart, Saltcreek, 43; Stone, New Holland, 40.

Jim Cornhill's dope sheet makes these predictions for this Friday:

Ashville to win over Jackson by 27 points; Pickaway to beat Scioto by 19 points; Monroe to defeat Washington by 16; Saltcreek to margin Atlanta by 5 and Walnut to win over Williamsport by 4 points.

Cornhill's record to date is perfect as far as picking winners, although his scores have missed some times.

IRISH MAY BE DROPPED FROM BIG 9 SCHEDULES

CHICAGO, Dec. 12—The possibility of discontinuing future football relations with Notre Dame formed an important though hardly-publicized, point today on the agenda as 125 Big Nine moguls convened for the annual three-day western conference December meeting.

Authoritative Big Nine sources revealed that, as soon as existing commitments for future games have been fulfilled, Big Nine football teams may shut Notre Dame out.

Among the reasons given were:

1. Conference teams can make just as much money playing among themselves and with other independent or conference clubs.

2. Notre Dame is actually too tough for Big Nine teams. When you play Notre Dame, you lose two games—the Notre Dame game and the game the week after. This does not imply that Notre Dame plays dirty football—it's just that the competition is too rugged.

Support for that second point could be derived from the fact that three of the four Big Nine teams played by Notre Dame this year went on to lose the week after they met the Irish.

Among "possibility" on the calendar for the western conference meetings is that of holding the annual winter indoor track meet in the University of Chicago fieldhouse next March.

Although the U. of C. is no longer a member of the Big Nine, its fieldhouse is one of the best in the country, besides being centrally located. It's known that Chicago would welcome the chance to play host.

NEW HOLLAND 5 SCORES 56-31 OVER REESVILLE

New Holland cagers racked up another victory Wednesday night, defeating Reeseville, one of the leading Clinton county teams, by a 56-31 score.

Superintendent - Coach Ray Blackburn said the total was eight points more than any team has scored this season against the New Hollanders, who have an opponents' average of 19. He also praised the work of Polk, visiting guard, who collected 11 points, highest individual effort against New Holland to date.

Big Jim McCown led the winners with 23 points. Jack Doyle got 14 in the first half. New Holland led 29-1 at the half and reserves played much of the second half.

HOUSE OF DAVID TEAM WINS HERE

Bearded Beauties, Columbus Pros Put On Exhibition Game At Roll-Bowl

House of David basketball players clowned their way to a 37-33 win over Columbus pros at Roll and Bowl Wednesday night.

The 'bearded beauties' exhibited fancy pass work and some good shooting at times during the rather slow game before a medium-sized crowd. Paul Short with 13 points and "Tiny" Faulkner with 10 were high point men.

The game was close all the way and very rough with the referees instructed to call fouls only under the baskets. Bald Bill Steinecke and noisy "Ham" Hamilton, who claims a record of having played in nearly 2,000 games without a minute out, brought the crowd many laughs with their clowning.

"Squint" Phares got 9 points for the pros. Beryl Drummond, former Waterloo Wonder, who plans to join the House of David team when it leaves this part of the country, collected 8 points.

In a preliminary Eshelman Feeds won 42-24 over Clarksburg. Jack Hennis led the Eshelman team with 13 points and Max McPherson's six was high for Clarksburg.

Columbus Pros are scheduled to return here soon, bringing with them an outstanding traveling pro team.

TIGERS TRAVEL TO WILMINGTON FOR LOOP GAME

Hurricane Has Lost Only SCO Game Played So Far, Bowing To Greenfield

Circleville high school Tigers take to the road again Friday night to play a South Central Ohio basketball league game at Wilmington.

Each team has identical records in the SCO play to date, one loss. While the Tigers were bowing to the big Chillicotheans last Friday, the Wilmington Hurricane was taking a 35-23 defeat in a rough game at Greenfield.

Cleo Hamilton led the Hurricane with eight points at McClain. Other first team men are Cartwright, Harcum, Baker and Zurface. Also participating in the Greenfield contest were Bryson Summers, Foland, Fife and Breuleux.

Coach John Daugherty was hoping Thursday his charges will "snap out of it" and score a win Friday night. Bob Steele is expected to be in better health than he was Tuesday and the coach is keeping his fingers crossed in the hope no other boys get ill.

If all the boys stay well, Coach Daugherty probably will use his regular lineup of Steele, Paul Smallwood, Bob Eccard, Bob McCoy and Glenn Smallwood. "Red" Crawford, who looked good in the last quarter of the game at Ashville, also probably will see quite a bit of action.

Reserve teams of the two schools will meet in a preliminary to the varsity contest.

PHIL GORDON, STONEROCK SET BOWLING PACE

Phil Gordon's 211 was high single game score and Harold Stonerock's 572 high series in the Wednesday night bowling league at Roll and Bowl.

Elks No. 2 won three games from Post Office; Gordon Auto Parts took three from Ford; American Legion won twice over Kiwanis No. 2; Rotary won two from John Deere; Crites Oil took two from Isaly and Jaycee No. 2 shut out Kiwanis No. 1.

Wife Preservers

To save work, omit the ironing of towels and diapers. They are more absorbent if unironed. Most garments made of nylon dry to a nice finish without ironing, and seersucker clothing should be dried on a hanger and smoothed into shape while wet, with only the seams pressed. Busy housewives find ironing only the hems of sheets saves time and effort.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

Missing

DONALD S. GOMIEN, above, 18, disappeared from his Washington, Pa., home Nov. 20 in what his father, Edward M. Gomien, termed an "upset mental state due to resentment of discipline." Friends believe the boy went either south or west. (International)

Helpful Hints

When you are measuring shortening, first rinse the measuring cup in cold water. The shortening will come out more easily, not sticking to the cup.

When you do a lot of painting around your house, keep the paint containers, when not in use, tightly sealed in a cool, dry place. Place the oldest ones in front so that they will be used first, and at least once every three months turn the cans bottom side up.

After grating fresh, soft cheese, rub a hard crust of bread over the grater to clean it.

TREASURE HOUR

Dorothy Kirsten, noted Metropolitan lyric soprano, returns for an encore performance, and Robert Weede, Metropolitan baritone, makes his initial appearance on the present series of Mutual's "Treasure Hour Of Song," as they join conductor Alfredo Antonini and the orchestra in a program of light musical selections on the broadcast Thursday, (9:30-10 p.m., EST). Miss Kirsten's solo selections include the waltz song from Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet," and "If There Is Someone Lovelier" from the musical comedy, "Revenge With Music." Mr. Weede will be heard in the "Song of the Vagabonds" from Friml's "The Vagabond King," and "Ol' Man River" from Jerome Kern's "Showboat."

ABBOTT AND COSTELLO

To impress Vocalist Marilyn Maxwell, Lou Costello volunteers to ride an experimental rocket to the moon, during the Abbott and Costello comedy broadcast, Thursday, at 10 p. m. He is given a big send off by his pal, Abbott, and then the fun begins. Bandleader Skinnay Ennis sings "The Gal in Calico," and Miss Maxwell's vocal number is "Old Buttermilk Sky."

MUSIC HALL

Madeleine Carroll, screen actress, and Eddie Foy, comedian who joins the cast as a regular after January 1, will split guest honors on the Kraft Music Hall, Thursday, at 9 P.M. (EST) over NBC. Eddy Duchin, Milena Miller, the King Cole Trio and Russ Case and his orchestra will complete the cast of the half-hour program. Madeleine Carroll, British-born film star, disappeared from Hollywood in 1941 to do war work in Europe, but her memory is still fresh in the minds of her fans. Eddie Foy, has been in show business ever since his childhood debut with the "Seven Little Foys" in 1911.

REAL LIFE CRIME CASE

Rex Stout, noted mystery writer and creator of the popular fictional character, Nero Wolfe, will join the panel to discuss a real life criminal career which will be dramatized on Mutual's "I Was A Convict," Thursday, (10:30-11 p. m., EST).

DENNIS DAY SHOW

"Gal in Calico" and "For Sentimental Reasons" are the two songs which Dennis Day will sing on his NBC comedy program, "A Day In The Life of Dennis Day," over NBC Thursday at 7:30 p. m. EST. He will be accompanied by Charles (Bud) Dant and his orchestra. In addition to making plans for moving his show to its new Wednesday nigth spot starting Christmas Day, Dennis finds his social calendar filled to overflowing with the approach of the holiday season.

DICK HAYMES SHOW

Barituneful Dick Haymes will assume his usual role of "Harry" —that gent who's always wrong —on "The Dick Haymes Show", Thursday, (9 p.m. EST over CBS). He and Lurene Tuttle clown their way through a vignette spot all about a couple who sign several dealers' lists for a new radio—and then get them all. "The Dick Haymes Show" remains essentially musical and this farcical byplay eventually leads into Dick's vocal of "The Song Is You."

UNLUCKY 13

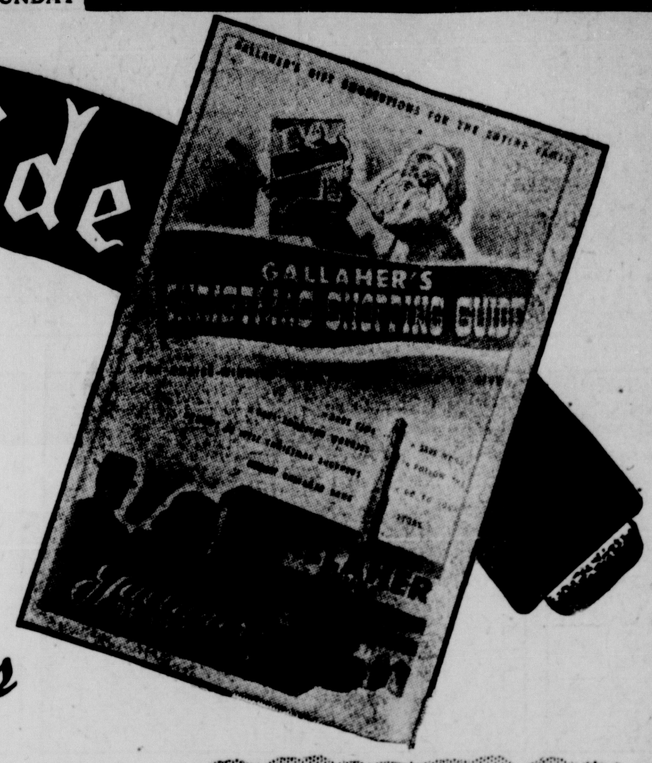

The lucky (?) woman crowned "Queen For A Day" on the MBS broadcast Friday, (2:30-3 p. m., EST) will supposedly hex all chances for good luck in the future, as she smashes mirrors, trots under ladders, spills salt and otherwise defies a total of 32 superstitions, while being crowned "Superstition Queen," on the traditionally unlucky "Friday, the 13th." However, despite the "Queen's" rash actions, her luck will hold good when Jack Bailey showers her with the gifts, tours and 24 hours of fabulous fun which is the lot of each "Queen For A Day."

Abbeville, France, is noted for the remarkable fossil remains of extinct animals found in its neighborhood, as well as flint instruments of prehistoric man.
